FORTY-EIGHT DIE IN NEW YORK STATE

Thundershowers Break
High of 95 in Chicago;
Million Seek Refuge
On Ocean, Lake Fronts.

By the Associated Press.
Deaths attributed to the nation's five-day heat wave rose to at least 295 yesterday.

Drownings accounted for a large number of the deaths as thousands of persons crowded ocean and lake beaches.

Rising humidity offset falling temperature in New York yesterday, and five more deaths attributed to the heat brought the five-day total to 24.

Clouded skies promised belated relief which the Weather Bureau predicted would be only temporary.

The temperature fell from the 90's down to a maximum of 87 at 4:30 p. m. (Atlanta time).

Return to Homes.
As the mercury declined, thousands who had fled to Coney Island and other accessible beaches made ready to return home.

For many, it was to be their first night's sleep in a bed since the torrid wave gripped the metropolis five days ago.

Attendees estimated that upwards of 30,000 persons, many stripped down to bathing suits, slept on the Coney sands on Friday and Saturday nights, and other thousands bivouacked at other beaches, in Central Park, Brooklyn's Prospect Park and other green spaces dotting the metropolitan area.

At the height of the heat wave, whole families evacuated cramped, stuffy flats in the tenement districts and stretched themselves on news papers and bed clothing spread out in parks and squares.
Many camped on fire escapes.

Record Invasion.
State and local police on Long Island reported a record invasion from the mainland this afternoon, the heaviest to beach resorts on the sound and ocean being estimated at around the half-million mark.

To these refugees came like a reprieve the news that thundershowers had depressed the temperature to 70, at 8 p. m. (Atlanta time) in Greater New York.

The middle west and Atlantic seaboard continued to swelter in 90 to 100-degree temperatures.
The western plains and Rocky mountains area enjoyed slightly cooler weather and scattered showers.

Six West Virginia communities were harassed by floods after two creeks overflowed and drove between 300 and 350 families from their homes.

North central Kansas experi-

Armed Crowd Hunts Youth in Girl Slaying

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 11.
(UP)—Vigilantes armed with clubs and knives took up the search tonight for Joe Dumorad, sought by police in connection with the murder of Estelle Fine-berg, 16, tall, fair-haired high school girl who was criminally attacked and killed with a hammer.

Police warned that any mob violence would be dealt with drastically, but the vigilantes pushed their search—silent on what they intended to do if they found Dumorad, a 20-year-old mechanic.

Estelle's body was found in Dumorad's room at the home of her grandmother. He is an or-

Mrs. W. F. Melton Hurt In Automobile Crash

Mrs. W. F. Melton, former president of the Atlanta Woman's Club, was admitted to Emory University hospital late yesterday afternoon after the car in which she was riding collided with another car at the junction of Clairmont and LaVista roads.

Hospital attendants said she was suffering severe shock and that she sustained possible fractures of the back and ribs. Dr. Melton, who was driving, sustained a wrenched back.

DeKalb police reported Mrs.
Melton was thrown from her car and was in a semi-conscious condition when picked up and taken to the hospital.

H. G. Griffin, address unknown, was the driver of the other car, police said. He was driving west on LaVista while the Meltons were proceeding north on Clairmont.

Extortion Note to Mission Pastor Lands City Prison Habitue in Jail

Receipt of an extortion demand from a prisoner in the city stockade by the Rev. Felton Williams, apparently because the latter refused him admission to the Atlanta Mission because he was drunk, was revealed last night.

The prisoner, later released, was arrested last night and held in the city jail on suspicion of extortion.

The prisoner demanded the missioner send him $500 cash immediately, threatening that his house would be burned if he did not comply. Further down in the letter, he threatened to burn the missioner also unless the extortion demands were adhered to.

The letter was signed by Roy Johnson, who gave his address as the city prison.

Detectives S. W. Roper and H.
L. Sexton arrested Johnson, who is 29, and booked him at police headquarters. He gave two aliases, Ernest Sanders and Ernest Williams. The case will be referred to FBI agents.

Two Men Were Seriously Injured in This Crash After Lakewood Race

Two men were seriously injured in this spectacular crash after the final race at Lakewood park yesterday. The car driven by Wild Bill Moore, Gainesville speedster, was hurled far off the track by the crash.
The camera caught it in midair. Gordon Chard's head can be seen in the center of the dust cloud. Note the tense expressions on the faces of the spectators as the car hurtles in their direction.

3 MORE RUSSIANS IN FLIGHT TO U. S.

Trio Will Follow North Pole Route Pioneered By Fellow Soviet Aviators.

MOSCOW, July 12.—(Monday.)
(P)—The Soviet air ace, Mikhail Gromov, hopped off today for the United States flying by way of the North Pole to San Francisco.
Good weather was forecast for the flight. The Soviet North Pole radio station predicted excellent flying conditions all along the route.

Ace of Fliers.
Gromov is regarded as one of Soviet Russia's best long distance fliers. Plans for the flight called for two companions to accompany him.

Gromov's plane took off at 3:22
a. m. Monday, 8:22 p. m. Sunday (Atlanta time).

Gromov's flight comes within three weeks of that made over the north pole by three Russian aviators who landed at Vancouver, Wash., on June 20.

Those three, Valeri Chkalov, Georgia Baidukov and Alexander Beliakov, passed directly over the North Pole near which the Soviet government has established a scientific camp.

It was first reported that Gromov's destination might be Chicago.

Another plane expected to make a flight over Arctic areas is to be piloted by Sigismund Levanev-sky, who attempted a trans-polar flight from Moscow to San Francisco in August, 1935; but was forced to turn back when the plane developed trouble.

Gromov was the regular pilot of the big Russian airplane Maxim Gorky, but was not aboard it when the ship crashed in May, 1935, killing 49 persons.

With a minimum of ostentation and farewells, the three fliers, headed by Gromov, took off from

Four Race Drivers Injured In Lakewood Park Crashes

Two Reported in Serious Condition After Smashup Following Final Race of Day; Buddy Callaway Has First Accident in 17 Years at Track.

Four race drivers were injured, two seriously, in two crashes on the Lakewood speedway yesterday. Both crashes occurred at the beginning of the south curve and within 10 feet of each other.

Those injured were Buddy Calloway, of Macon; Wild Bill Moore, of Gainesville; Gordon Chard, of Chicago, Ill.; and Phil Lacetier, of Portland, Oregon.

First Crash in 17 Years.
Callaway's crash was his first in 17 years of racing at Lakewood park. He was not seriously injured and returned to the park after treatment at Grady hospital for a dislocated right thumb and severe cuts and bruises. Lacetier suffered several broken ribs, hospital attendants said. He also was released from the hospital after emergency treatment.

Moore and Chard were seriously injured, although both are expected to recover. Chard sustained a broken leg and several broken ribs. Moore is believed to have suffered internal injuries.

All four cars were badly damaged in the crashes, witnessed by thousands in the grandstand.

COURT BILL HALTS MAJOR MEASURES

Farm and Wage and Hour Legislation Held Up As Senators Seek 17 Votes.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—(P)—
The court bill threatened today to act as a dam, checking the usual torrent of legislation.

Such major measures as the ever-normal granary, wage and standards and Wagner low-cost housing appeared to many legislators to be doomed to indefinite delay as a result of the struggling over the revamping of the supreme court.

Some persons close to the scene predicted that after the court fight ends, weary legislators would grab their hats and be off.

One whose expressed this opinion was Representative O'Connor, Democrat, New York, chairman of the rules committee.

Roosevelt Letter Expected.
On the other hand, a bloc headed by Representative Mavrick, Democrat, Texas, favored staying here until a long list of bills is enacted, heat or no heat.

The court debate seemed sure to dominate all other affairs in the capital this week. The opposition had two more Democratic senators—Bailey, of North Carolina, and O'Mahoney, of Wyoming—on its list of speakers for tomorrow.

Yesterday, Senator McCarran, Democrat, Nevada, carried on the opposition fight with a speech daring administration men to eject him from the party.

ter to the Hill tomorrow outlin-

13,000 ARE KILLED IN MADRID BATTLE

30,000 Reported Wounded in Savage Five-Day Engagement for Control.

HENDAYE, Franco - Spanish Frontier, July 11.—(UP)—Loyalist and Nationalist armies fighting for possession of Madrid tonight were reported to have suffered more than 40,000 casualties.

Five days of battle during which General Jose Miaja's Loyalists have fought savagely to break the Rebel steel ring around Madrid, were estimated to have taken a total of 13,000 dead and nearly 30-000 wounded.

The Nationalist high command, refusing to list its own losses, said approximately 7,000 Loyalists were killed and 15,000 wounded.

Insurgent and government war offices issued conflicting "victory" bulletins, but it was evident the armies of Miaja were making progress in their drive through the Sierra Guadarrama toward the Rebel base of Navalcarnera, 32 miles southwest of Madrid.

The Madrid war office announced the capture of Villanueva Del Pardillo, west of Madrid and the seizure of more than 600 prisoners as well as a large supply of ammunition and war materials.

Insurgent headquarters at Avila reported that Loyalists suffered "several thousand" casualties in an unsuccessful attack on Lucero, a working class district on the southwestern outskirts of Madrid.

The town of Albaracin, west of Madrid, was reported surrounded by Miaja's shock troops, including units of the International briga-

Gershwin, Composer and Musician, Dies After Brain Tumor Operation

HOLLYWOOD, July 11.—(P)— George Gershwin, one-time $15 a week song "pluggers" who attained sudden fame when Paul Whiteman himself "plugged" the composer's "Rhapsody in Blue" in New York's classic Aeolian hall, died today after an operation for a brain tumor.

The 38-year-old writer of jazz classics was ill only two weeks.
He collapsed at a movie studio where he was writing songs for a musical. Taken to Cedars of Lebanon hospital, he was reported suffering from nervous exhaustion.

Gershwin collapsed again yesterday, at his home. X-ray examinations at a hospital disclosed a brain tumor which has been growing amazingly fast. His physician, Dr. Gabriel Seagall, telephoned for Dr. Walter Dandy, of Baltimore, asking him to fly here.

Late last night the composer's condition became extremely grave, and after a consultation of brain specialists an immediate operation was ordered. Dr. Carl Rand performed the surgery.

Filmland Hears Mae Will Divorce Wallace

LOS ANGELES, July 11.—(P)— Reports circulated in film circles tonight that buxom Mae West was planning to file suit for divorce from Frank Wallace, New York actor she married in 1911.
The actress remained in seclusion.

Mae's business manager,
James F. Timony, has conferred with District Attorney Buron Fitts, ostensibly concerning reports from New York that Wallace might sue Timony for alienating Miss West's affections.

Miss West denied at various times she was ever married to Wallace. Last Wednesday she publicly admitted she married him in Milwaukee, April 11, 1911.

62 PLANES POISED FOR 200,000-MILE HUNT FOR AMELIA

300 Navy Fliers Aboard Lexington Prepare for Spectacular Sweep as Colorado Gives Up Hope.

HONOLULU, July 11.—(P)—
Three hundred navy fliers aboard the carrier Lexington prepared tonight for a spectacular effort in the search for Amelia Earhart while aviators from the battleship Colorado abandoned hope after four days of scanning the Phoenix islands.

Heading in the approximate direction of Howland Island but with its exact destination undetermined, the Lexington's 1,299 officers and men concentrated immediate energies on detailed plans for a high-speed 200,000 square mile aerial sweep of the equatorial Pacific. The ship has 62 planes.

One Chance in Million.
"There is only a chance in a million for a rescue," said naval officers directing the search.

They said the main possibility remaining is that Miss Earhart's globe-girdling plane alighted in the water and still is floating. Such a plane could be sighted from the Lexington's air fleet, they said.

The Lexington's armada was expected to begin the search tomorrow afternoon or Tuesday, probably first scouting west and south of Howland and extending the search to the Gilbert islands, toward which the equatorial currents in that area run.

Searchers said, however, there was only an outside chance that the lost plane descended so far short of its goal as the Gilberts, 600 miles east of Howland.

Fliers Lose Hope.
The Colorado's fliers confessed they had lost hope after the Phoenix islands.

Third Girl Drowned In North Georgia River

DAHLONEGA, Ga., July 11.— Maudell Brookshire, 14, was drowned while bathing in the Chestatee river, four miles east of here, this afternoon. Her father, Armos Brookshire, saw her tumble over in the water and made a vain effort to rescue her. He located the body in shallow water a few minutes later, but the girl was dead. She was reported subject to fainting spells.

Miss Brookshire was the third drowning victim near here in a week. Two other girls, Annabel Savage and Lorena Gaddis, each 12, died last Wednesday in the swift current of Hightower river at Hutcheson's mill.

the Chinese government.

The government announced more troops were being rushed to the North China zone of conflict, where Japanese and Chinese sol-

Wednesday night.

The high command, acting with its accustomed speed and decision, dispatched one of its most trusted commanders, Lieutenant-General Kiyoshi Katsuki, by airplane to take command of Japanese forces in North China.

Feverish Conferences

These decisions were made public after a day of feverish confer-tary and political leaders of the realm laid their views on the Peiping crisis before the Emperor himself.

It was announced in view of the gravity of the situation, Emperor Hirohito would return to Tokyo tomorrow from Hayama, seaside

SCOTTSBORO TRIAL WILL BEGIN TODAY

Negroes' Attorney Denies Compromise Rumor.

DECATUR, Ala., July 11.—(UP)—Samuel Leibowitz, New York criminal attorney, tonight emphatically denied he planned any compromise in the six-year-old Scottsboro cases whereby nine negroes, charged with criminally attacking two white women, would be given short prison terms.

Leibowitz arrived today from New York to defend eight of the negroes who will be tried in Morgan circuit court, starting tomorrow.

"We have fought this thing through the courts for six years and we won't stop until the negroes are acquitted," Leibowitz said.

troops had occupied the village of Villanueva del Pardillo, 15 miles west of Madrid, and captured 600 insurgent prisoners, including seven officers.

An announcement said the newest push in the "victorious advance" also resulted in the seizure of a large quantity of rifles, two anti-tank cannons, seven machine guns, four automatic rifles, a radio station and food supplies.

The French freighter Tregatel, which had been aiding in evacuation of refugees from Santander, in northern Spain, and was seized July 4 by the insurgent cruiser Almirante Cervera, was permitted to leave Bilbao for France.

Police at Perpignan, France, seized five Frenchmen, one Roumanian and an Algerian attempting to cross the frontier into Spain to join the government army.

NEGRO MAN SLAIN AFTER ARGUMENT

Heated Crap Game Discussion Ends in Death.

One negro was killed, one stabbed and another beaten over the head with an iron pipe in a series of fights yesterday.

Shot in the back following an argument over a crap game, Willie Huggins, 22, of 529 McDaniel street, was pronounced dead on arrival at Grady hospital late yesterday afternoon.

Detectives E. S. Acree and T. B. Clark arrested George Kennedy, 17, of 459 Crumly place, on charges of suspicion of murder. Witnesses said the two were arguing at Whitehall terrace and Glenn street when Huggins broke and ran. Kennedy, they said, pulled a gun and fired four shots, one penetrating Huggins' heart.

Eddie Lee Williams, 39, of a Peachtree road address, was admitted to Grady hospital about 2:30 o'clock yesterday morning in a serious condition. He had been stabbed near the heart. Police arrested Alice Smith, 36, on suspicion of stabbing. Police said she was in the room in the rear of 928 Peachtree street when Williams was found and admitted doing the stabbing.

Her skull fractured, Fannie Price, 40, of the rear 392 Capitol avenue, was admitted to Grady hospital yesterday afternoon. She had been struck over the head with an iron pipe, police said. They are looking for Herman Rigins, also of the rear of 392 Capitol avenue.

Mother of 5 Tots Tells Police Tale Of 'Meanest Man'

NEW YORK, July 11.—(UP)—In a Brooklyn courtroom, almost empty on this drowsy Sunday afternoon, Mrs. Thomas Powers—married at the age of 13 and now the mother of five—told the judge today that her husband was the meanest man in the world.

She had come in from a night of walking the streets, a night in which stifling heat alternated with drenching rain, and she had spent it carrying two of her children in her arms while the other three tagged along behind on the hot, wet pavement.

Broken Nose.

She still had the marks of a broken nose, which she said her husband had given her a few weeks ago. Mrs. Powers had no money to go to the police about that. But today weary and hungry, she filed assault charges. This was the story she told:

Powers came home at 9 o'clock last night and she got into an argument with him. He struck her face and knocked her head against a wall.

Their five-year-old son James ran up to help his mother. He was nude above the waist because he had been painfully sunburned on his back.

Attacks Child.

Powers seized the child with one hand, and then began making deep, wide scratches across the sunburned back with the fingernails of his other hand.

In the other room, Albert, four months old, screamed in his crib. Powers went in and hit the baby on the head. Then he ordered them all out of the house.

Powers was held in $500 bail. He said he was drunk last night and did not remember anything.

Tschelkovo field, about 35 miles outside of Moscow.

Flying with Gromov are Co-Pilot Andrei Yumoshcheff, and Sergei Danilin, navigator.

Their plane is identical with that used by Chkalov on the recent hop to the United States.

The fliers said they would hop over the pole and continue toward the west coast of the United States, flying as far as possible.

THREE AVIATORS PIONEERED POLAR AIR TRAIL

SAN FRANCISCO, July 11.—(AP)—Three Soviet aviation "heroes" pioneered the polar air trail from Moscow to America three weeks ago in an epic, 63-hour flight.

They landed at Vancouver, Wash., with 16 gallons of gasoline after a 5,400-mile flight with little food, water or sleep.

The three, Pilot Valeri Chkalov, Co-Pilot Georgi Baldukov, and Navigator Alexander Belakov, headed for San Francisco across the bleak arctic wastes, just like their compatriots now en route over the same course.

Officials at the Russian consulate here said today they had not been notified of the second attempted polar crossing, but expressed great interest and asked for all information available.

Completion of the flight would break the aviation distance record held by the Frenchmen Paul Coudas and Maurice Rossi, who flew 5,637 miles from New York to Syria in August, 1935.

The Soviet consulate said it had no information on whether reports would be received from the fliers, or to what points they would report.

Authorities of the port welcomed her with a bouquet of orchids.
Mrs. Roosevelt was greeted by Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the board of the United States Steel Corporation, with whom she departed by automobile for Florence. There she planned to spend a week as Mr. Taylor's guest.

PLANS MADE TO AID STRICKEN FARMERS

Resettlement Administration Moves To Safeguard Farmers in Drouth Area.

By HILLIER KRIEGBAUM.
(Copyright, 1937, by United Press.)
WASHINGTON, July 11.—The Resettlement Administration tonight moved to safeguard drouth-stricken farmers, driven from their farms by protracted years of unfavorable weather, from the menace of what has been called "profiteering in human suffering."

Regional directors, here for a series of conferences with Resettlement Administration executives, outlined new plans for warning farmers against purchasing marginal land from speculators at exorbitant prices. Forced to leave their homesteads because of four major drouths since 1930, the farmers of the drouth trough have shifted to other regions. Land speculators in some sections have tried to unload nearly worthless land on these people or have charged prices in excess of a conservative valuation, they said.

Already some of the regional directors and their field agents have told farmers to consult impartial persons such as county farm supervisors, as to the real worth of a piece of land before they buy.

Meanwhile, Weather Bureau officials saw no immediate relief for the prairies and Mississippi valley, although they said the northeastern Atlantic seaboard states might obtain relief that "slipped in the back door" from Canada.

DRUNKEN DRIVING CHARGED TO MAN

Valdostans Hurt as Their Car Is Rammed.

Two Valdosta police officers and their wives were severely shaken late last night when another car rammed the back end of their stationary automobile, backed up and rammed it a second time.

The crash was at the corner of Pryor and Glenn streets, where the Valdosta car had stopped awaiting a green traffic light.

Driving the car was Captain D. Frank Simmons, 35, of the V 'dosta police force. His wife, who was seated beside him, was treated by a private physician. Motorcycle Officer and Mrs. J. J. Shivers were seated on the rear seat.

Atlanta police arrested the driver of the other auto, who gave his name as John R. Winters, of 184 Georgia avenue, on charges of drunken driving.

DYER TO PLEAD INSANE IN INGLEWOOD KILLING

LOS ANGELES, July 11.—(P)—Albert Dyer, confessed attack-slayer of three little Inglewood girls, will plead innocent and innocent by reason of insanity tomorrow, his counsel indicated tonight.

Five state alienists have pronounced him sane. Police said Dyer, 32-year-old WPA worker, would be taken into court under heavy guard to obviate any possibility of violence. They said he became hysterical in his cell Friday night, injuring his head by butting it against the steel bars.

MOTORCYCLIST IS HURT AS ROCK THROWS HIM

Fred Shearer, 18, of a Howard street address, was admitted to Grady hospital for observation of a head injury late last night after being thrown from his motorcycle on Gordon road.

An unidentified companion, who was riding with Shearer, was not injured. Police said the motorcycle struck a rock in the road, throwing its riders.

State's Only Woman Game Warden in Action

The female of the species may be more deadly than the male. At least, the Georgia State Department of Wild Life has decided to find out. Miss Mary Lou Keese, of Gainesville, has been sworn in as the state's first and only woman game protector. She now patrols the toughest "beat," mountainous north Georgia. Here she is surveying the hillsides with her dog "Spot." And don't let that kind expression fool you. Miss Keese is a "dead" shot.

Well, Mr. Violator, a pretty girl fooled you, did she? That badge gives her just as much authority as the toughest male game protector. Just in case, take a good look at that badge she's displaying now. You can't fool her, friends say she is a "natural" for the job.

Ohooooo. The "tough" lady is still a woman, after all. Here she is taking time out from her game protecting duties to add a little feminine touch to her lips. Her's may be a man's job, but that vanity case goes wherever she trails the lawbreakers.

RALLS FINDS CROPS IN "FINE" CONDITION

Hamilton Ralls, state supervisor of marketing, reported yesterday crops between Atlanta and Toombs county are in "fine shape."

Ralls, who discussed establishment of a farmers' produce market with Toombs county citizens at Lyons Friday, said corn and cotton are doing fine and that other special crops were looking well.

The movement of watermelons in Georgia now is at its peak, the marketing supervisor said. Reporting the south Georgia tobacco crop is looking good, Ralls said a good yield was in prospect.

WEEK-END THEFTS KEEP POLICE BUSY

Giving Negro Crapshooter a Match Costs Man $85 Here.

Petty thieves and holdup men ran rampant over the city during the past week end, taking an estimated several hundred dollars in personal property and cash. At least three suspects were arrested yesterday by city policemen.

Four negroes accosted R. E. Herrell, of 581 Willow street, on Linden street, near Bedford, early yesterday morning, rifled his pockets and stole $85 cash, he reported to police. Herrell was passing a negro crap game when one of them asked for a match. As the white man reached to comply, the other negroes grabbed him from behind.

Restaurant Raided.
Thieves broke in the rear window of the restaurant operated by N. W. Nixon at 583 Glenn street early yesterday morning and escaped with ham, bacon, other food stuffs and a radio valued at $40, police were told.

Two young white men were arrested by Officers J. W. Cody and R. V. Paschal on charges of suspicion of larceny of an automobile after the allegedly stolen car nearly sideswiped the police machine at the corner of Ormond and Grant streets.

The officers gave chase, overtook the fleeing car and arrested one of its occupants, Sam Thomas, 20, of 326 Glenn street, S. W., while the other fled on foot. Later, the same policemen arrested Walter Waldon, 21, of 541 Windsor street, S. W., said to have been the other occupant of the car, as he was apparently attempting to start a car in front of 291 Atlanta avenue. The car which nearly sideswiped the police car was stolen from the Downtown Chevrolet Company, 329 Whitehall street police said.

30-Cent Holdup.
Rex Williams, 102 Druid circle, N. E., enjoyed a laugh on four negroes who attempted to hold him up at Edgewood and Howell streets about 2 o'clock yesterday morning. They hemmed him in, two from the front with knives, and two from the rear with pistols. For their troubles, they got 30 cents.

Jack Rabon, 27, of 307 Crew street, was being held on suspicion of burglary after Radio Patrolmen J. H. Langley and H. D. Henshaw arrested him in the process of ransacking the Cooper Street Baptist church.

A Constitution paper carrier, T. E. Johnson, 570 Techwood drive, Apartment 23, and a companion told police they saw a negro run across Pierce street in the 900 block with a bundle under his arm. They said he ran into an alley. Police investigated and found the negro apparently had broken into a notion store at 917 Stewart avenue owned by L. F. Kennedy. The front door lock had been jimmied and 55 packages of cigars, 10 baby sweaters, 18 pairs of ladies hose and a quantity of ladies underwear taken.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 11.—(P)—Trans-Pacific Clipper planes dived serenely tonight toward a long-sought goal—1,000,000 miles of service flying over the widest ocean without an accident.

Pan-American Airways announced their four big sea-spanning planes would complete the 1,000,000th mile of commercial operation between California and the orient with the arrival tomorrow of the Philippine Clipper in Manila.

The planes rolled up a total of 5,622,124 passenger miles during that operation and carried nearly 200 tons of freight, exclusive of air mail.

CHURCH 'UNITED FRONT' SOUGHT IN GERMANY
BERLIN, July 11.—(UP)—The Roman Catholic church tonight invited Germany's Protestant Confessionals, scores of whom have been arrested for opposing "nationalization" of the Lutheran church, to join in a united front against "the anti-Christ."

A plea for unity was read from the pulpits of Catholic churches throughout the reich while Confessional leaders announced they would stop attacking the government pending action on a plea for an "honorable peace."

IRISH PROTESTANTS CELEBRATE BATTLE $500,000 DAMAGE CAUSED BY FLOOD

Police Mobilize Reserves To Prevent Rioting.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, July 11.—(P)—Ulster police mobilized all available reserves of men and arms today to maintain order among the thousands of Orangemen—Irish Protestants—who tomorrow will celebrate the 247th anniversary of the Battle of Boyne.

The traditional observance often has been marked with violence such as the rioting which two years ago took nine lives and wounded more than 50.

Orangemen, who take their name from King William III, Prince of Orange, celebrate the anniversary of the battle July 12, 1690, in which William's army defeated the forces of the Stuart King James II at the River Boyne.

WHEELING, W. Va., July 11.—(P)—Six flood-weary West Virginia communities began mopping-up operations again today after two surging creeks flooded homes and business houses—and caused damage which the Wheeling Intelligence estimated at $500,000.

County Health Commissioner R. M. Peddicord said there was no loss of life. He estimated between 300 and 350 families were forced to flee to the hills when the creeks tore down through the narrow valleys.

ATLANTA, GA., JULY 12, 1937.

CITY TRAFFIC IMPROVES

Full credit should be given the Atlanta police department for the marked improvement in traffic conditions noticeable on the streets of Atlanta. The gradual working out and adoption of rational nonparking zones, one-way streets and other methods of control have already brought a definite change for the better.

Part of the greater respect for traffic ordinances shown by drivers and pedestrians alike is undoubtedly due to the policy, rigidly enforced, of no "ticket fixing" for anyone, in any circumstances. The old evil of getting a "friend with influence" to arrange that a ticket charging illegal parking, reckless driving, speeding or other violation be "turned up" has apparently been effectively stamped out.

The increase in arrests for the first six months of 1937 is attributed to the strict and impartial enforcement of the traffic laws.

Much good work has been done and excellent results have been accomplished. There must, however, be no let-up. Traffic safety can be won only by constant vigilance and by patient education, through friendly suggestion, through warning, and, if necessary, by arrest of those motorists who violate the law.

There is, for instance, one practice almost universal among Atlanta motorists which Captain Jack Malcom and his traffic squad can halt. That is the habit of using only one traffic lane on a two-lane street. Probably Atlanta motorists have grown so accustomed to parked cars pre-empting six feet of roadway along the curbs that they unconsciously feel they must drive as near the center of the thoroughfare as possible.

The result is that a single lane of traffic moves slowly along, on the street car tracks if they're there, with another lane nearer the curb unused. And, in such conditions, the man behind the slow-moving line hesitates to turn into the open pathway, because it is, of course, illegal to pass another car on the curb side.

The police should direct traffic into the double lanes. Once the habit is formed it will effect a highly desirable speeding up of the traffic flow during the morning and evening rush hours.

From the fine record of the past few months it can be taken for granted that this and the minor improvements will come. Certainly every law-abiding autoist and pedestrian should commend the police for what has been accomplished.

WANTED—SATISFACTORY LIFE FOR YOUTH

There is nothing new in the findings of a WPA survey of criminal court procedure in Georgia that most inmates of the state penal institutions are youths below 25 years of age. The tragedy of youth in crime has been revealed and expatiated upon by penologists and social students for years.

The WPA report, however, touches on the crux of the problem when it says: "There seems little doubt that any successful attempt to solve the crime problem in Georgia must first produce conditions in which the youth of the state find a satisfactory existence."

Certainly when youth finds the waiting world shaped entirely to youth's desire, the effort to change conditions of life will cease. If everything is right, there will be no temptation to step beyond the law. For youth, satisfied, will be youth that will never revolt. After all, most crime is but revolt against social rules which youth is not experienced enough to recognize as wise.

Conditions of life in Georgia must be improved for the generations that are to come. Just as conditions in life the world over must be improved. Just as each generation has always sought to leave a better world for its children and its children's children.

Youth, however, must learn it cannot expect always to find life exactly as it would wish. Youth must learn if fate has not provided a cushion on which to loaf at ease, the way to get that cushion is to work and sacrifice for it, not to steal it.

If every condition in Georgia was "satisfactory" to youth, the state would be approaching that stagnation that foretells death and youth itself would face a most unhappy existence, soft without the exercise needed to overcome handicap, and boresome without distant goals to be achieved.

The word "um" in Esperanto means anything or nothing and yes or no. It makes for a certain monotony in political interviews in Esperanto.

Another rigor of the diplomatic life is having to froth at the mouth over a matter of some river islands you can't find on a large map, even.

"An Eskimo delicacy, corresponding to our ice cream, is concocted of tallow, seal oil, moss-berries and cods' livers." Thanks, a single dip will be ample.

We don't recollect what that "jury" found in the case of Trotsky. Except that he wasn't in the pay of Moscow.

Presumably it was principle that drew outside hordes to the Spanish struggle, but, looking under the surface, we find minerals.

THE SOUTH—EMPIRE OF INDUSTRY

The predictions of Henry W. Grady and other southern leaders of a bygone day who envisioned a great industrial empire in the south are coming true today in an impressive manner.

According to the 1937 edition of the Blue Book of Southern Progress, published by the Manufacturers Record, more than $450,000,000 has been invested in constructing and improving southern industries in the 18-month period closing with July 1 this year. This surpasses the record for any similar period in southern history.

New industries are springing up all over the south, utilizing by-products and materials of the south that were considered useless even a few years ago. Cotton, so long undisputed king, while still the greatest factor in southern prosperity, sees advancing rivals for his throne in petroleum, paper, chemicals and other products of the farms, forests and mines of the south.

Many southern plants today are either the largest of their kind in the country or the world. Cotton is processed into hundreds of materials for varied uses. Its by-product, cottonseed, once a waste, is one of the most valuable items of southern wealth today. Sugar cane, sweet potatoes, rice, peanuts, pine and other wealth that springs from southern soil motivate great manufacturing plants that turn out scores of things the whole world needs.

Each of these enterprises opens new markets and new avenues to greater wealth for every inhabitant of the south. Tobacco, furniture, iron and steel, paper and boxboard add their wealth to the widening stream.

The world of industry is today recognizing, more and more, the many advantages possessed by the south. Great as today's development is, it is but the beginning of an era when the whole world will demand southern goods and pay tribute through the rivers of world commerce to southern enterprise.

Two things must yet be done to clear the road ahead. The discriminatory rail freight rates which place unjust handicap upon southern manufacturers must be adjusted, and the undistributed profits tax, strangling plans for industrial expansion in every line of activity, must be removed.

Then, with the last shackle removed, the south will outdistance every competitor and take her destined place as the industrial center of the world.

BOTH CAN LEARN

The reciprocal arrangement between the Mexican government and the Georgia Highway Department whereby two young Mexican engineers are now here familiarizing themselves with the road building and highway administration methods in this state, and under which two Georgia highway engineers will enjoy similar experiences in Mexico, should result in great benefit to both parties.

The experiences of the Georgia Highway Department, its failures and its successes, will provide a valuable object lesson to the Mexican engineers to help them in the broad program of highway building now under way in their native land.

Conversely Georgia can undoubtedly learn much from the experiences of Mexico in this activity.

The day is coming when the motorist will be able to roll in comfort on perfect roads from the northernmost regions of North America to the tip of Cape Horn in South America. Already there is an excellent highway, in unbroken stretch, from Alaska to a point south of Mexico City, and only a few links remain unfinished to complete a road from Cape Horn to Caracas.

The interchange of highway engineers is symbolic in that it foretells the time when all the nations of the two Americas will know each other so well and their peoples will travel so freely over their neighbors' roads that they will work together for the good of all as closely as the 48 commonwealths of the United States work together today.

Strange: A couple of new islands cropped up suddenly in the Kurile archipelago of Japan without striking a Soviet gunboat.

If land won't grow anything or support anybody and, all in all, is a headache to the power owning it, it's a natural for a "border incident."

THE POWER OF MONEY

(From The Detroit Free Press.)

The intricacies of international exchange defy the lay mind to comprehend them and seem, at times, to baffle even financial experts.

The United States, Great Britain and France together have four-fifths of all the monetary gold in the world at their command.

And yet Great Britain and the United States are indefinitely off the gold standard, and France has now suspended gold payment, as a means of checking the flight of the franc during the fiscal debate in the French parliament.

With all this gold to play with, these three great industrial and trading countries should be able, one would think, to stabilize their currencies on a gold basis and keep them there.

The principal obstacle to such stabilization seems to be the disinclination of each government to be the first to announce a fixed gold value for its pound, dollar or franc, as the case may be, which it can and will defend against all demands for further devaluation.

They are all afraid that if any one of them does this its competitors will proceed immediately to fix their monetary units in terms of gold, at values which will give them an advantage in world markets.

Other obstacles have political origins.

The trouble in which the franc now finds itself, for example, traces directly back to the costly reforms forced upon France by the Communist-Socialist Popular Front, at a time when the treasury was already strained by the necessity of financing a huge armament program.

And if France's financial difficulties should lead to inflation and widespread distress among the French people, there is the possibility of civil disorder, which might be an invitation to other powers to attack France, and thus precipitate another European war.

The love of money has been said to be the root of all evil.

The mismanagement of it within nations and among nations is a fruitful cause of distress and disaster.

Behind Washington Headlines

By H. R. BAUKHAGE.

FAMILY ROW WASHINGTON, July 11.—A very unpleasant family row is about to spoil the peace and tranquillity of the good neighborhood.

Puerto Rico is the "unhappy family" now being threatened with having a slice of its income cut off. This possibility might be discounted if it weren't for the fact it is being so carefully concealed. The violent disturbances in the island have given businessmen the jitters. Officials deny that politics is to blame and say that the trouble is with the "repressive" policy that might be read in the beautiful Puerto Rican handkerchiefs and this is due to the minimum wage law for women. The law isn't new, but it was considered unconstitutional until the supreme court, during its last session, upheld the Washington state minimum wage statute. Now the labor commissioner of Puerto Rico has been served with an injunction against enforcement of the island's law.

Some supposedly hard-headed businessmen take a different view of the matter. They have had their economists down there, looking at the stormy little island through a microscope, and they say that the soil is getting unhealthy for American dollars. Some, at least, of these dollars are about to be kept at home.

The Puerto Rican ruckus has been cavalierly written off by casual observers as political growing pains. But the situation, according to private investigations of at least one large interested commercial concern, is a good deal worse than advertised.

MOVES SUGGESTED While the government realizes the seriousness of the general situation, there is a sharp conflict of theories as to what should be done.

Two possible courses have been suggested by unofficial observers on the spot. One is to replace Governor Blanton Winship, and thus indicate through a less "repressive" policy that might be reassuring to the disgruntled political elements. The other is to have a sweeping investigation by an impartial commission and devise a program in accordance with its findings.

An even more radical move has been suggested, which would mean the removal of Dr. Ernest Gruening, director of territories and insular possessions in the Department of Interior, as well.

Something will have to be done soon.

According to the disturbed businessmen, that won't be soon enough.

The main trouble in Puerto Rico comes from a small but highly pyrotechnical group of nationalists who, of late, have scrambled their ballots and bullets. (The insular chief of police and several other officers have been shot, a judge fired at. A number of local politicians have been sentenced to the penitentiary in Atlanta for conspiracy against the United States government.)

A great hue and cry has been raised against Governor Winship by one element of natives. Another group blames Washington. One talks about the repression of civil liberties (a charge reiterated by Arthur Garfield Hayes, who headed an investigating commission of the Civil Liberties Union). Another begs for a stronger hand.

Governor Winship, who is also a general, is called too militaristic by political elements other than the nationalists. The businessmen, and their colleagues in the United States who deal with them, less interested in politics than profits, would like a stronger hand. They would not only swallow a general, but would be glad of a whole army. They sigh, audibly, for the good old days before 1934, when the War Department was in charge.

Of course, sending the army down there to run things would hardly be pleasing to our other good neighbors. As a gesture of amenity, it would rival taking a polecat to a cocktail party.

Just another hot weather problem for your old uncle in Washington.

BEHIND THE SCENES

The biggest show in Washington is still running to standing room only—the court fight in the senate.

It's exciting, the senate chamber's air-cooled, and it isn't a bad place to spend your vacation.

But the real show is going on behind the scenes.

It combines a display of the perfect co-ordination of a team on the flying trapeze and the back-to-the-wall determination of the death battalion.

The field marshal is Senator Wheeler, of Montana. The reserves are headed by Senator Burke, of Nebraska. The silent man of strategy is Senator Bennett Champ Clark, of Missouri.

They have their act rehearsed to a hair, and they say it's going to win.

You can't miss Senator Wheeler. He's on his feet whenever there's a chance. You may miss Burke, but he is there. Being there, in fact, is his job. He hasn't been off the floor a minute since the fight started. When the session runs through lunch, he goes without any.

Clark may not be in sight of the galleries, either. But wherever he is, he is within instant call of Burke or Wheeler.

He's the parliamentarian, naturally. He was parliamentarian of the house of representatives when his father was speaker.

Incidentally, when President Pro Tempore Key Pittman sprang his "surprise" in the court fight, which was announced as death to any hopes for filibuster by the bill's opponents, it wasn't any surprise to Clark. An ancient rule had been dug up prohibiting any senator from talking more than twice on the subject in the same legislative day. The Missourian and his colleagues knew it was coming. They have, it is said, the antidote ready to apply when needed.

ADMINISTRATION NOT WORRIED

All of this, however, doesn't scare the administration a bit.

The President, as indicated earlier in this column, believes that a filibuster will run the country against the opposing senators. If they insist on staging a marathon debate, he will simply betake himself to his yacht or his homestead and let them talk themselves to death.

NEW AMENDMENTS PLANNED

The way Senator Clark plans to get around the new application of the old rule to stop the filibuster by allowing each senator to talk but twice on any subject is simple, but effective. New amendments to the bill will be introduced by the opposition senators as desired. A new amendment is a new subject and so the talk can go on forever as long as amendments hold out.

The Theater Guild

Tricked Me.
I had been, six or nine times, to performances at the Atlanta theater by the Atlanta Theater Guild or the Federal theater, the allied group. Always I had followed by meticulous custom of arriving comfortably in advance of the advertised starting time, 8:30 o'clock. Each time it had been at the earliest 8:45 o'clock before the curtain rose on the first act.

Oh, yes, I had protested. Privately and in the publicity of this column. To no avail. The management blamed the audiences, saying they just wouldn't come on time and they didn't like to start the show until most everyone was seated. I argued that they should start on time, regardless, and the audience would soon learn the lesson.

But the next visit would bring the same experience, so I decided all my pleadings and arguments and threats were useless and resigned myself to the circumstances.

Then, one night last week, I went to see "Mary the Third." Decided I'd aim to be there in ample time for an 8:45 o'clock curtain. Reached the theater at exactly 8:35. And found the show had been running for five minutes, as it should have been. The audience was all attentive in the seats and my party were the only disturbance creating late-comers.

My congratulations to the Theater Guild powers that be. Apparently they have taken the lesson to heart and even the audience has learned that the advertised 8:30 means a prompt 8:30. Yes, the audience has learned and, after last week, so have I.

But I'm afraid next time I get there at 8:30 I'll have to sit in patience until I can see a curtain that rises slowly at 8:50.

The Uses of Corporulency.

The family was traveling to town on a street car, with two utterly delightful and charming young lady visitors, aged ten and twelve, respectively.

It so happened that the motorman on the front platform was blessed with a highly developed corporulency. He was more than stout, or even fat. He was superlatively corpulent. His rotundity protruded in globular perfection that silently told of a lifetime of gustatory enjoyment.

The young ladies started speculating as to the reason for such excessive weight in a motorman. At first suggestion was made that, with many passengers boarding the car at the rear end and with the sheeplike tendency of standing passengers to stay bunched at the rear, with the front half standing room unoccupied, the company preferred fat men on the front platform for the balancing effect. Then it was noticed that the motorman at the rear was not more than two sizes smaller than the motorman. So that argument

General Johnson

Hamilton Fish Accused of Political Tactics at the "Ultimate Low."

By HUGH A. JOHNSON.

Technical Violation NEW YORK CITY, July 11.—Ham Fish's pawing over Mrs. Roosevelt's unselfish services to charity is politics at the ultimate low. It may be a technical violation of Mr. A. to engage to do something for Mr. B. If he will pay a fixed sum of money to charity C and then for Mr. A. not to pay income tax on what charity C receives. But the evil in any tax evasion is that the evader makes something for himself by not paying in taxes as much as he ought to pay. Nothing of this sort is charged against Mrs. Roosevelt. She made the nominal sum of $10 out of the broadcasting for which a charity received $3,000 a week. An agent and a lawyer got a commission and a fee out of which they presumably paid the proper tax.

I have not checked this and it may be wrong but I believe that if the charity in question had made the deal directly with the broadcasting company, it being a non-profit institution, even this highly technical question would not have risen at all.

Why did Mr. Fish raise it? Obviously in the hope that, by attempting to throw discredit on Mrs. Roosevelt, some of it would spatter over on the President himself—the "discredit" being an uncompensated service to holy charity. It seems incredible. The kind of politics that would do that would violate a tomb, outrage a nursery or defile the precincts of a sanctuary to make votes.

Highest Respect The offense is in no way lightened by the fact that the offender's protest has only the highest respect for Mrs. Roosevelt. That is like King David's general who greeted his enemy by the affectionate Jewish gesture of stroking the latter's beard and, thus concealing his weapon, disemboweled his foe.

This column has protested the administration's methods of attempting to discredit wealthy men by publishing (with the implication of tax evasion) their tax returns prepared in exact accordance with the treasury's own instructions. It was abominable. But one abomination does not excuse a worse one. Mrs. Roosevelt had nothing to do with what the treasury did to the economic royalists. She was merely using her position to do as much good as she could. The attack on her is downright uncharitable. It is downright dirty.

It is unpatriotic because it holds the political methods and the standards of gentlemanly ethics in this country up to justified contempt in the eyes of the whole world. A degraded Hotentot would scorn to do what is being done here.

Blackmail Epidemic It is fortunate that there is at least some amusement in the recent epidemic of tax blackmail on both sides—not the least of which is the disclosure that the President is in the Christmas tree business on his Hyde Park farm. It works right in with his general line of goods because, for four years, he certainly has been in the Santa Claus business at 1600 Pennsylvania avenue, Washington, D. C., with Henry Wallace and Harry Hopkins as assistant Santa Clauses. It looks as though he were holding out on the boys on his Christmas tree sideline.

Mr. John T. Flynn had a piece in the papers that ought to be reread. It showed that, without counting real estate and other visible taxes or city sales-taxes, the "low income bracket" executives, who think that the so-called rich tax policy is letting them off Scot free, actually paid over 3 1-2 billions in hidden taxes last year. It points out that "they ain't seen nothin' yet" because much of the spending has been paid by borrowing and not by taxes, and the borrowing limit is reached.

They are going to get theirs. It will be a good thing because when enough people are pinched and know it, their squawking will stop the spending party.

seem untenable. One offset the other, as it were.

Then it was tentatively proposed that the motorman's embonpoint might act as a sort of bumper, or shock absorber in event of collision. Alas the remainder of the journey to town was enlivened with descriptions of automobiles driving head on into the car and bouncing off the motorman like the new rubber safety devices the state road department is installing at grade crossings.

It was a fascinating exercise of imagination.

Paul Can't Get More Than His Share Unless Peter Gives Up Part of His

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

In one of the new historical novels there is a scene in which the author reveals the understanding of a Tolstoy.

The Civil War had begun. A proud and sensitive gentleman, recently made an officer, stood on the station platform, surrounded by his luggage and his family, waiting for the train, that would take him to his command.

He had packed his bags, with the help of a servant, and knew that no essential thing had been left out.

But his wife, anxious and dutiful, suddenly decided to check up. He protested that all was well, but she had to see for herself. She began to unbuckle a bag.

The gentleman, being a gentleman, had made it a rule never to hurt his wife's feelings.

So he stood there in grim silence, red of face and sweating in outraged dignity, while his lady checked his equipment, counting the items aloud—so many socks, so many nightshirts, so many underdrawers—innocently unaware of the amused smiles and suppressed giggles of the neighbors and strangers who formed an appreciative audience.

Only a man can know what he suffered in the name of chivalry. A modern might have growled: "I tell you they're okay; forget it." Or even: "Oh, for cripes sake, Helen, let 'em alone." And his modern spouse might have answered: "All right, Boy Scout; it's your funeral."

But this lady's feelings were tender and the gentleman wouldn't hurt them. But he made himself a martyr, and that is the point to be remembered.

When two people are much together in public, there are frequent inclinations to hurt tender feelings. In such cases, one may take steps to save the other, but only by sacrificing himself. Somebody must be hurt. The sins of one go unpunished because the other takes it on the chin in silence.

There is a law of balance, or something of the sort, and what is given to one is taken from another. If one doesn't pay, another must. If the customer gets a bargain, the producer got too little pay.

Where you find one person sitting on top of the world without paying for his seat, there is another in the background sweating to settle the bill.

WORLD'S WINDOW

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

Danton. NEW YORK—Because of a typographical error in the spelling of Danton's name, an estimable reader takes me indignantly to task for "garbling the high points of history" in this column. This is a serious charge and I would hide my head in shame if I could not spell the name of the man whose statue stands before the door of my house and on the subject of whose treasonable career, for Danton was in the pay of the monarchy, I wrote a "monograph" which earned a favorable citation from the Institute of Political Science in Paris.

It is true, I did not go for my sources to Carlyle, having access to Carlyle's sources of finding that Carlyle, who wrote romanced history, very often put words in the mouths of historical characters that suited his own purpose best. What the matter of spelling of Danton's name has to do with the Jews, however, is something that escapes my comprehension.

Danton was not a Jew, I am not a Jew and the estimable reader above mentioned, judging by his name, is not a Jew either.

Origin of the Bible.

From another reader of The Constitution comes the request to say something of the origin of the Bible. This is something that really surpasses the limits and scope of a newspaper column. The dates, that is to say the periods in which the various books of that collection were written, are still a subject of critical debate. Not much of it was written until the fifth and sixth century before Christ. There were, no doubt, some ancient chronicles on which the writers of the Bible-book based themselves and which served them as guidance. In fact two distinct traditions, diametrically opposed as to the conception of God, became confusingly interwoven in the Pentateuch. For instance one simply supposes the Jehovah-cult to go back to the creation of the world, while another shows us the Israelitic nomads asking Moses for the name of the Deity, who had sent him.

The Book of Job definitely rejects the belief of a life hereafter, while elsewhere there are references to spirits of the righteous being gathered in an estate of blessedness. There is a constant change and evolution in the conception of God. The Hebrews, of all the peoples of antiquity, are the only group which ever connected its God. From jealous, tribal, warlike Yahweh, he grew into the god of one land, who was nevertheless but one, although the worship amongst the many gods greatest in ancient Palestine. Later he absorbed all the nobler qualities of the rival baalim and the prophets elevated him to the one supreme principle of guidance for all mankind.

THIS MORNING

By JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES II.

"Charmed magic casements, opening on the foam
Of perilous seas, in faery lands forlorn."

There are magic casements beside the sea at St. Augustine, and they are not to be left forlorn. For contribution to the history it recites and to the dream and detail of the great plan it reports, we nominate to enduring fame last Sunday's "Restoration Edition" of the St. Augustine Record. Editor Nina Hawkins and her associates made of this edition a thing of light and beauty, an education and an inspiration, an inventory deserving to be retained in precious leather. No one who was as much as half interested, half in love, with the restoration plan for America's oldest city can be less than completely interested, completely in love, after examining this edition of the Record.

What is planned at St. Augustine is sure to undergo an often comparison with what has been done at Williamsburg. But there are many differences. One is that St. Augustine comes to its great day a "going concern." Williamsburg was a sleepy, almost forgotten hamlet when the restorers arrived, but St. Augustine meets its side the sea as a modern community, a famous and popular holiday place, a city as living and alert at this moment as ever in the centuries it recalls.

Also unlike Williamsburg, St.
Augustine's memories are many colored. The history cherished at the Virginia shrine has a wealth of chapters, true, but they are chapters all in the progress of a single people, records of one great Anglo-Saxon epic. The history St.
Augustine knows, on the other hand, with even more chapters, is not a story of one civilization,
but rather a drama of many civilizations that crossed, contended and fused. Williamsburg descends from John Smith, the Englishman, but St. Augustine is a descendant of Osceola, the Indian; Ponce de Leon, the Spaniard; Ribault, the Frenchman; Oglethorpe, the Englishman; Andrew Jackson, the American; and Henry Flagler, the modern developer.

Another difference is that St.

Augustine seems to have more original stone standing, more first things remaining. So much of the history that was sought to be served at Williamsburg was without material relic that reproduction was the great task. But in Florida's city a wealth of originals remain, and the great job would seem to be one of discovery, selection, allocation, environment and preserving rather than of actual reproduction.

An office building hides an ancient and beautiful church spire.
A circus banner advertises incongruously the oldest schoolhouse. A gas tank affronts an Old World skyline. A stream of modern traffic dissipates the spell of quaint and memory-laden streets. Next door to lovely things are unlovely ones that don't belong. Crowding historic treasures are utilitarian things that spoil the treasure and could serve the utility elsewhere just as well. Spain is confused with England, Indian trinket with French art. Menendez with Andrew Jackson, the 16th century with the 17th and 18th.
And from many a storied stone and historic plank the sun and rain take ruinous annual toll.

To separate one civilization from another and save them all. To protect history from holiday and holiday from history and have them both. To take inventory of a million precious relics and administer them with a science that will preserve them and an art that will display them. These are the triple tasks over which the Carnegie institution has undertaken direction.
They differ from Williamsburg's tasks, but they require of the citizens of St. Augustine as much sacrifice, imagination and co-operation as were required of Williamsburg's.

F. D. R. IS EXPECTED TO AIR FARM VIEWS

'Ever Normal Granary' and Crop Controls Have Been Advocated.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—(P)—
President Roosevelt may send to Capitol Hill tomorrow a letter discussing his views on farm legislation, informed legislators said today.

Although the contents of the letters have not been made public, Secretary Wallace has advocated an "ever normal granary" and accompanying crop controls.

The government, under this proposal, would make loans on farm surpluses stored in bumper years for use in lean years. If the stored surpluses became so huge as to depress farm prices, strict crop controls would go into effect.

Three Other Bills.

Thus far the furious debate over the court bill has seemed to block action on this farm measure. Three other administration bills already have been enacted, however:

1. Extension of the present Soil Conservation Act, with its benefit payments of $500,000,000 a year, until 1942.

2. Broadening of the federal marketing act which permits

since the CIO, insisting on signed contracts with steel companies, called a strike May 28.

The Governor termed the nine-point agreement made by Youngstown and the CIO a "memorandum of understanding."

Similar Agreements.

The agreement was similar, with one exception, to an agreement made by the Inland Steel Company and the CIO with the Governor two weeks ago, permitting 12,500 men in the Calumet area to return to their jobs.

The Governor explained that the agreements would be in effect pending hearings before the National Labor Relations Board. The board has been asked to decide whether signed contracts are necessary under the National Labor Act.

The Governor said the points of the agreements are as follows:

"1.—It (the company) is in full accord with the provisions of the National Labor Relations Act.

"2.—The company will meet and negotiate with the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee, or its representatives, for the purpose of collective bargaining in behalf of the members of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers of North America who are employed by the company.

"3.—Maintenance of a wage rate in keeping with wages paid in the industry in the district where the company operates.

"4.—Eight-hour day and 40-hour week, with time and a half for overtime.

"5.—Vacations with pay for employees of over five years' service with the company. In view of the loss of wages due to cessation of work during 1937, the company will permit its employees to elect to receive the vacation pay instead of taking actual vacations this year.

"6.—Promotion of safety and health.

"7.—The company will not discriminate against any employee because of membership in any labor organization.

"8.—The company recognizes the principle of seniority.

"9.—Grievances will be negotiated and settled with employees through any labor organization to which they may belong or representatives of such organization."

ALCOA, Tenn., July 11.—(P)—
Members of the local Aluminum Workers' Union voted "almost unanimously" tonight to end their strike and return to work tomorrow morning in the fabricating mill of the Aluminum Company of America.

In announcing the union's decision, Fred Wetmore, who resigned today as president of the local union, said:

"The union voted almost unanimously to return to work after I had pleaded with them for three-quarters of an hour to do so."

Wetmore said he tendered his resignation to Francis J. Dillon, personal representative of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, "for the good of the union."

He declared Dillon suggested that he resign.

E. M. Chandler, superintendent of the fabricating mill, said the strikers had been told to report for work tomorrow.

Gershwin never rallied from

Dr. Carl Band performed the op-

Gershwin was working on songs for "Goldwyn's Follies," a movie of the nine songs he contracted to write. His brother, Ira, who will have charge of funeral arrange-lyrics for the movie.

Gershwin's first movie contract

earning $250,000 a year.

$391,000 LEVEES SLATED TO SHIELD ROME IN FLOODS

Early Construction Likely on Oostanula and Coosa River Banks.

ROME, Ga., July 11.—Construction of levees along the northern banks of the Oostanula and Coosa rivers here, at the cost of approximately $391,000, is expected to begin within three months, provided the city furnishes rights-of-way, Chairman H. H. Keel, of the city commission, revealed yesterday after a conference with government engineers.

The $391,000 levees will be constructed by contract with government funds already appropriated and will protect the western sections of the city from flood waters.

Right-of-way costs to the city will be approximately $80,000, Chairman Keel estimated. There are approximately 30 property owners in section on which the levees will be built, but Keel said the property necessarily was not expensive.

It was estimated the levee would be three-quarter-mile long.

Commission To Meet.
A meeting of the city commission has been called tomorrow at 1:30 o'clock, Keel said. General plans outlined for constructing the sewer will be discussed and a committee appointed to obtain rights-of-way immediately.

Victor K. Wagner, government engineer stationed at Mobile, said it would require two months to prepare detailed plans for the levee. He said the government appropriation was sufficiently large to take care of the revised plans for the flood control in Rome and indicated it would not be necessary to raise the bridges at Second and Fifth avenues.

Plans Call for Concrete Walls.
Plans call for concrete walls to be constructed to the abutment of the two bridges which in the case of a 40-foot river could be filled with sand bags and thus protect the western part of the city just as levees will protect it against ordinary floods.

Three-Lane Road Assured.
The State Highway Department has assured the city commission it will construct a three-lane highway from the Second avenue bridge to connect with North Fifth avenue, near the Southern Railroad trestle, thus providing another inlet into the city over state highway Route 1 at all times and under all possible flood conditions.

The highway work is contingent upon the work by the government on the levees, Keel said. Work on the new highway, he added, is expected to begin at an early date. The new levee will abut the hill at the Southern Railroad trestle over the Oostanula river and come down it to the junction with the Etowah and extend down the Coosa river toward Horseshoe creek. The plans call for part of it to be concrete and part dirt. The opening under the Central of Georgia trestle along North Second avenue will be completely filled in if present plans are followed, Keel declared.

Once constructed by the government, the levees will be maintained by the city. Pumps, to be supplied by the government, also are to be maintained by the city.

Flamingo Mothered By Bewildered Hen

MIAMI, Fla., July 11.—(AP)—A big brown hen, bewildered but proud, mothered today a baby flamingo, believed to be the first ever hatched in captivity.

The Rhode Island Red took over the task of hatching the egg and another after the female flamingo was frightened from her nest by a dog. She refused to return later.

The hen greeted the arrival with cluckings but now she is said to appear puzzled over her proxy youngster.

INCOME TAX SOARS TO 46 PER CENT OF INTERNAL REVENUE

Total Collections for Fiscal Year Exceed Four Billion Dollars.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—(P)—Income tax payers provided 46 per cent of all internal revenue receipts during the fiscal year ended July 1.

Announcing this today, treasury officials added that in the previous fiscal period, income tax receipts accounted for 40 per cent of all collections.

The officials attributed the increase to improved business, which always causes a prompt jump in income tax revenues, the new surtax on undistributed corporate profits and higher surtax rates on individuals.

Total Collections.
Internal revenue collections totaled $4,652,504,000 in the last fiscal period, an advance of $1,132,295,000 over the previous year. Income tax receipts climbed $736,442,000 to $2,149,381,000.

Last year, individuals replaced corporations as the largest payers of income taxes. From individuals, $1,094,492,000 was collected, and from corporations, $1,054,888,000.

In the previous year, individuals

Senators will swing into the second week of debate over the court bill tomorrow prepared to woo 17 votes with all the fervor of a political campaign.

The 17 votes are those of senators who have made no public commitment on the issue. Since the key to the bill's future lies here, leaders of both sides are expected to court these votes with all the persuasion that their command.

Five days of such campaigning are past, but there is no indication how long the debate will continue. Leaders will not predict. Only a few senators have spoken at length to date.

The unofficial score of those on record remain 40 against and 39 for the bill.

JAPANESE RUSHED TO PEIPING FRONT

gan about 11 p. m. Wednesday, when troops of Japan's North China garrison on night maneuvers clashed with soldiers of the Chinese 29th army near Marco Polo bridge. Each side said the other fired first; each blamed the other for breaking subsequent truces.

Ready for Eventualities.
The cabinet, rising from an emergency session, issued a communique indicating Japan was ready for all eventualities. The cabinet said "all necessary measures" had been taken to speed reinforcements to the zone of trouble.

The war office issued a statement shortly before midnight saying reports from the scene of conflict indicated the Chinese had complied with Japanese demands for withdrawal of their forces from the Yungting battleground. But it went on:

"In view of the bad faith repeatedly manifested by the Chinese, we fear we will be betrayed if we place confidence in such verbal promises. Therefore, we must keep strict vigilance until the agreement to withdraw is completely fulfilled."

Details of troop movements were not announced, although it was known that units of the powerful Japanese army of occupation in Manchuria, called the Kwangtung army, had reached Shanhaikwan, on the China-Manchoukuo frontier, presumably en route to the Peiping zone.

Troops Rushed by Truck.
(Tientsin reported the Japanese troops reaching Shanhaikwan had continued by motortruck toward Peiping. Thirty-five trucks carrying 700 men had passed near Tientsin. Japan's army in Manchuria totals about 100,000 men.)

The cabinet's communique said Japan would respect the rights of other powers in China.

It was understood the cabinet also acted to make funds available for immediate military purposes. A pronounced war atmosphere spread through Japan.

Popular Excitement.
Popular excitement was reflected in the feverish demand for newspaper extras which flooded the streets. Experienced observers said the Japanese public had not been so roused since 1931, when the army began its conquest of Manchuria.

Explaining its decisions, the government's communique said: "Two successive incidents in North China appear part of a well laid plan by the Chinese, who at present are dispatching large forces to North China. In spite of China's aggressive attitude Japan is still genuinely anxious to localize the affair."

What Japan seeks from China is apology for unwarranted attacks, reparation for the slain Japanese soldiers and suppression of all anti-Japanese movements.

The navy as well as the army prepared for action. The government instructed consuls in China to prepare to evacuate Japanese residents.

TENSE PEIPING HEARS RUMBLE OF CANNON.
PEIPING, July 11.—(P)—Guns roared again tonight along the Yungting river as both Japan and China were reported speeding fresh troops to the North China zone of conflict.

The cannonading, in the fighting area 10 miles west of this city, was distinctly audible in Peiping. Both Japanese and Chinese admitted fighting had been resumed after negotiations had been broken down.

Peiping itself, in the grip of rigid martial law, was ominously silent. All gates were closed, but from the walls could be heard the rumbling and clanking of Japanese tanks on the near-by roads, apparently moving toward Fengtai, five miles southwest of the city.

ATHENS MAN IS KILLED BY AUTO IN CAROLINA
AIKEN, S. C., July 11.—(P)—An automobile hit Dave Cullum, of Athens, Ga., tonight as he stood beside his carnival truck and he was killed.

Al Center, Cullum's employee with whom he was talking at the time, was hit also, but was not seriously hurt. He was taken to a hospital.

SHIP CREW SAVES 750 FROM VOLCANO

Captain Describes Heroic Efforts of Freighter's Sailors at Rabaul.

HONOLULU, July 11.—(P)—The American freighter Golden Bear lost one crew member but by heroic measures rescued 750 persons from imminent disaster when two great volcanic eruptions destroyed the town of Rabaul, New Britain, New Guinea, May 29.

Captain E. M. Olsen, of the Golden Bear, described the cataclysm and rescue upon arrival today of the Matson Line freighter.

Rising envelopment of his ship and all hands in the lava flow, Olsen said his men made their way ashore to lead 750 persons, mostly women and children, out of the doomed city.

Victor A. Costner, the Golden Bear's radio man, disappeared, Olsen said, as crew members groped their way ashore in pitch darkness, through downpours of volcanic ashes and pumice.

Olsen said more than 250 persons perished under the searing lava. He said hundreds of others would have perished had they not received warning and a chance to escape on the Golden Bear. Other accounts of the disaster had estimated the dead at 500.

At 4 p. m., May 29, a submarine crater on Yagor Island, in the harbor area, "burst wide open with a tremendous roar," Olsen said.

"The lava and steam drifted over to the mainland."

During the night most of the Rabaul population moved to nearby Nondup.

Using its two lifeboats and a work boat, the Golden Bear took the refugees to Kokopo, 15 miles distant.

"Rabaul received the full force of this downpour of ashes and pumice. If the population previously hadn't been ordered out, the death toll would have been far greater," Olsen said.

EXTORTION CHARGED TO PRISON HABITUE

sentence Johnson was serving in the city prison for being drunk. The Rev. Williams received it on June 28 and immediately turned it over to police, who at the time were unable to locate the prisoner-extortionist.

In the meantime, July 1 to be exact, Johnson again was locked up on charges of being drunk. Having served this sentence, he was arrested again yesterday by Detectives Roper and Sexton and booked at the city jail.

Investigation by detectives revealed that Johnson had been refused admittance to the Atlanta Mission one night because he was drunk. That, it was said, started his animosity toward the minister. Police said Johnson had a long record of sentences for being drunk.

The extortion letter in detail, follows:
"Atlanta, Ga., June 26, 1937.

Refuge for Thousands as Heat Claims New Victims

Driven from stuffy homes and flats by a soaring mercury, thousands of persons are seeking refuge from the blistering heat at Coney Island. Each night finds the sands crowded by sleeping families, many members of which have stripped down to bathing suits in a vain effort to find relief from the scorching temperatures. The wholesale migration to beach resorts such as that which appears above has been estimated to total around a half-million.

enced its heaviest rain of the season. The fall totalled four and one-half inches at City Center.

Despite the rains, forecasters said high temperatures were expected to continue in most sections. The temperature soared to an unofficial 95 at Chicago at 2 p. m., but dropped to the high 80s when a thundershower broke. Eight Lake Michigan bathers were knocked unconscious and six of them seriously hurt when lightning struck a tree under which they had sought shelter during the storm.

Flee to Beaches.
Thousands sought relief at beaches, parks and rural retreats. Park policemen estimated at least 500,000 persons crowded Chicago's lake front beaches.

Richmond, Va., reported a maximum temperature reading of 93.8, two degrees below Saturday's high. Winston-Salem, N. C., reported a high of 95. Laurens, S. C., reported 101. Minneapolis sweltered in 93-degree heat. Milwaukee and Washington reported readings of 92.

Meteorologists said the heat wave followed a path almost identical to that of the 1936 figure, which lasted eight days. At Newark, N. J., the humidity was 66 and temperature 86 shortly after noon. Rain in central Indiana brought some relief. Philadelphia reported a temperature of ninety.

Drowning Toll Mounts.
The drowning toll mounted as thousands flocked to beaches in cities and towns in the "sweater belt." In the larger cities, hundreds spent the night in parks and paused on Sunday strolls before the cool doors of air-conditioned theaters.

Deaths attributed to the heat included:

Michigan, 27; New York, 41; Massachusetts, 15; Pennsylvania, 35; Illinois, 18; Connecticut, 31; New Jersey, 39; Rhode Island, 6; Indiana, 9; West Virginia, 4; District of Columbia, 4; Ohio, 14; Maryland, 4; Wisconsin, 10; Iowa, 3; Missouri, 1; Kansas, 5; Georgia, 1; Maine, 6; Virginia, 2; Tennessee, 3; South Carolina, 1.

George O'Brien Stars In 'Hollywood Cowboy'

Hollywood, in a fashion, has attempted to reproduce the expected actions of a cinema star in George O'Brien's newest picture, "Hollywood Cowboy," which opened a week's run yesterday at the Capitol theater.

The plot is exciting and the action fast. A Hollywood cowboy becomes involved in a real cattle range war and the arising complications bring unique situations. O'Brien, the cowboy, secures a job on a ranch whose owner is being intimidated by city gangsters who have moved on the range. The owner's daughter (Cecilia Parker) is engaged to a dude ranch owner. During the course of the war, O'Brien saves the life of the owner's daughter and her fiancé.

That is sufficient to win the girl's love and arouse the jilted lover's jealousy. The latter sees a picture set poster offering a reward for the capture of "Black Malone." The face on the poster is that of O'Brien. The jilted suitor notifies the sheriff where he can catch the desperate criminal. Then there are real complications. The picture is good and interesting.

On the stage is an eight-act vaudeville, "Comedy Stars of Hollywood." Included on this program are the Three Rollerettes.

62 PLANES POISED FOR AMELIA HUNT

nix survey with their three catapult planes. The Phoenix group had been considered the most likely place of finding Miss Earhart and her navigator, Captain Frederick H. Noonan, who disappeared July 2 in an attempt to fly 2,570 miles from New Guinea to Howland Island, a leg of their world flight.

Captain Wilhelm H. Friedell, of the Colorado, tentatively ended the ship's search of the Phoenix area and left the island group astern to head for a rendezvous with the destroyers Drayton, Lamson and Cushing about 350 miles northeast of Howland Island.

The Colorado still was in position to send out her planes, however, and it was said they possibly might make a final flight Monday.

The planes searched virtually the whole Phoenix area but found nothing to bolster hopes for the fliers' safety.

One of the planes, flying over Sydney Island in that group, reported sighting letters scouted in the sand spelling dozens of Polynesian words. The fliers, however, said there was no sign of life and they discounted the possibility that the markings in the sand could have related to the lost plane.

Speeding ahead of the Lexington, the three destroyers planned to refuel from the Colorado about 10:30 a. m. tomorrow, P. S. T. (1:30 p. m., Atlanta time), and then take up searching positions Tuesday morning to assist the Lexington.

Advises did not state what the destroyers' position would be on where the Lexington would start its aerial operations.

The messages also did not reveal whether the northward movement of the Colorado en route to the rendezvous meant return of the battleship here. Her fuel supply, however, was deemed capable of sustaining her engines and her planes only until Tuesday.

The Lexington reported her position 336 miles south of Honolulu late last night. Although capable of making 33 knots, nearly 38 miles an hour, she throttled her engines down to 18 knots to conserve fuel.

WORRY TAKES MORE ENERGY THAN BRAINWORK.

It takes very little food for thought—and the office worker leans toward overweight. Brainwork accompanied by strain, however, exhausts great stores of nervous energy, which accounts for the thin man in sedentary work.

You can do your best thinking on very few calories. Experiment has shown that the energy required for intense mental work without strain, is only three to four per cent more than that used in idle thinking. Dr. F. G. Benedict made an accurate measurement of the energy expended in mental activity, with surprising results. In a mental arithmetic test, an example of which was the multiplication of 73 by 47, with problem after problem in rapid succession, the energy expenditure increased only 3 per cent.

The executive who concentrates on a different problem for an hour uses no more calories than the office girl in dusting his desk for five minutes. As Dr. Benedict points out, the extra calories needed for one hour of intense mental work would be met by eating one oyster cracker, or one-half of a salted peanut.

But add strain to mental work and the picture is changed. It is no longer possible to estimate the exact energy expenditure, but we do know that under severe strain the output of energy will be increased from 10 to 20 per cent. This explains why, in similar sedentary occupations, the placid individual is apt to be fat and the nervous individual to be thin.

Mental Strain.
The man with business worries is under almost continual strain—often for as many as sixteen hours a day—and strain and worry put the health of the individual to a severe test.

Dusting takes more calories than desk work.

The brainworker needs muscular activity to ease the nervous strain, for the condition of the nervous system depends upon the muscular system. Change in activity, to bring into use a different set of muscles, enables the nervous system to relax. When you are exhausted by sedentary work, you can rest by taking mild exercises.

The business man will live longer and work more efficiently for an adequate noon recess, frequent rest periods, and vacations with outdoor activity.

The fact that you may be highly nervous, and thus burn more calories than warranted by sedentary work, does not eliminate the necessity for exercise—it increases this necessity. A wise doctor sent one of these overworked business men to a hermit in the mountains for a tonic made of herbs. The hermit agreed that was just what the man needed, but unfortunately the supply was exhausted. So they tramped for miles every day looking for this rare plant, and came to camp at night hungry as bears and too sleepy for the business man to worry about what might be going on at the office.

After three weeks of this, they still hadn't found the patch of herbs—but the man no longer needed a tonic.

IT OUGHT TO BE EASY.

When the Chicago City Club's noise abatement committee sought names for noisemakers which would shun them into being quiet, it received only one offering: "You great big disciple of cacophony, you."

Brims curve up on many of the new fall hats. This one, rolling Breton-wise all around, is of "Wallis blue" felt, designed with a cutout, worked crown and trimmed with dark blue ribbon. Howard Hodge designs it and Orlean Heyward, film actress, wears it.

By ADELAIDE KERR.

NEW YORK, July 10.—(P)—The first fall hats that have come to town click with fashion news in shape, color and trim. They make a distinct style shift from the summer mode and show a lot of face.

Watch for these things:

Height—Brims may roll high and away from the face. Crowns often show an elevation and sometimes are tapered or manipulated. Bows and feathers point skyward. Generally only one of these effects appears in each hat.

Back Depth—Fall designs swoop low on the back of the head. Sometimes the crown descends;

again a shirred piece of felt swirls down to the nape of the neck.

Color—There is nothing dull about the new hats. Even the black ones, which are legion, are spiked with vivid hues, while fuschia, wine-red and hydrangea blue felts are used for the bodies of hats.

Trims—Feathers are very smart. An ostrich plume (veiled) covers a crown, shimmering coque feathers spray down one side of the head or multicolored quills shoot forward. Flat fur covers a crown or lines a high felt swirl.

Fabrics—Soft pliable felts, drapable duvetynes, velvets (sometimes spattered with glistening dots) and multicolored satins (for cocktail toques) are all used. Antelope promises to have a great vogue.

Toques—Modistes have taken inspiration for toques and turbans from the Near and Far East. There are tall Algerian velvet toques tapering in the center and duvetyne turbans draped in a simplified manner like an Indian maharajah's headgear.

1900 Influence—The shades of the '90s and 1900s' awake in big brims and high off the head on one side and swoop down on the other, setting the profile in bold relief.

Directoire—The period of Napoleon's dictatorship is reflected in high manipulated crowns and in off-the-face and bonnet models.

Veils—They are still here, although designers expect them to be smaller than in the summer. Some big circular veils cover small toques.

The interrupter was certainly in her very early twenties, and her request for the name of the product was based on the fact that, "thought I don't actually need it now, it sounds like something which if I use as a preventive, may keep me from needing it as a corrective, later."

Get yourself one of these packages and use the treatment whenever you have a chance, whether while resting before dinner, taking your bath, or at any time you have leisure during the day, and see for yourself how it will remodel your contour, revivify and revitalize your skin.

I'll be glad to give you the name of this masque and the stores at which it may be purchased if you will phone me at my office in The Constitution building. If you live outside Atlanta, write, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

HEALTH TALKS

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

THE UNDER-PAR PATIENT WHO HAS NO PARTICULAR COMPLAINT.

Last summer, reports a correspondent, I got so run down and nervous that I could hardly work or eat. I read where you said lack of vitamins would cause under-par conditions like mine, and also that lack of vitamins would cause ridging and irregularity and poor growth of the nails and smooth shiny, pointed tongue. You mentioned deficiency of vitamins B, G and D particularly. I called this to my doctor's attention and he advised me to follow your suggestion. I immediately began taking liberal daily rations of B, G and D and my condition began to show improvement do less than a week. It is now nearly a year since I started on the vitamins and today I enjoy excellent health and endurance. I like my work and I like my food. At the good doctor said I needed. I couldn't at that time. Now I can eat anything and like it. Thanks to your fine column. You do not realize how much good you are doing. I know most of you not bother to tell you when we have obtained great help from your teachings. (H. G. B.)

Sometimes I think it is unfortunate that the nutritional deficiency disease known as pellagra was ever given that name. I suppose it was necessary to apply some specific name to the trouble when it had advanced so far that victims began to be helpless and require institutional or other care. But when the name pellagra was applied to the advanced stage of the trouble, that precluded proper diagnosis of the nature of the trouble in tens of thousands of

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name need not be given. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

I am engaged to a young school teacher who will never be anything but a school teacher. Of course it is a noble profession if one is noble by nature as my fiancé is. But I am not so noble that I don't grieve when I think of all the luxuries which I got married. There can't be any two-story house with a garden and lawn. There won't be a big family of children with plenty of servants to take care of them. There won't be anything much beyond love in a cottage, three meals a day, a little spending and a little saving on to the end. I thought maybe you might give me a good slant on the subject. Can you?

TWENTY-THREE.

ANSWER:

The school teacher's life is a varied life and I believe this is a good slant on it: There are no more contented people alive than the families of medium poor professional men such as school teachers and clergymen. To begin with they learn quickly to adjust themselves to a financial status which they understand will be a permanent one, more or less. If there is not a rich relative who may die and leave them a big slice of cake, they assume they are always going to eat bread and butter with jam for high days and holidays.

They aren't forever trying to keep up with the Joneses. They aren't buying bigger and costlier cars at every motor show. They aren't scrapping the furniture they bought last year to replace it with French, Italian, English antiques, whichever is most in favor with the decorators at the moment. They aren't pitching their scale of living higher and higher so that whatever increase they get it in other words their life is not a continuous struggle.

Not being able to buy the luxuries which their prosperous acquaintances have, they learn the value of many precious things which small amounts of money can buy. With no prospect of a ship's coming in they pay as they go, stay out of debt and usually put by something for the future. In other words, they are provident.

Of course they like caviar but they compromise on fishroe. They would enjoy sitting on the back seat of a custom built chauffeur driven motor car but they are ready to go if they have four good tires under them and a couple of gallons of gasoline in the tank behind them. In other words, they have contentment by the tail, which is a great sage saw was the same thing as being rich.

So much for the money question and the case for their social life is quite as good, since the two are inextricably mixed. They live with books and aren't lost when thrown with the lucky ones who have been everywhere, seen everything and done nearly everything. At least they have read about the great world and what's going on in it. Birds of a feather having a way of flocking together, their acquaintances and friends are usually like themselves, persons of good manners, good morals and good taste, persons who have learned by experience that man doesn't live by bread alone. In other words their familiarity with books has accustomed them to top-notch social usage, and fitted them to move comfortably in polite society.

On the school teacher's life is a very good life and if his wife is in sympathy with him their love in a cottage has quite as sweet a flavor as other love in a two-story house set in broad acres. CAROLINE CHATFIELD. (Copyright, 1937, for The Constitution.)

By Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Friday.—Three very interesting people came to dine with us at the White House last night. Miss Martha Gellhorn, Mr. Ernest Hemingway, both writers, and Mr. Joris Ivens, a Dutchman, and a most artistic and fearless maker of films. He is now working, I understand, on educational films in an effort to condense the best in many of the modern great pictures to a short form for the youth of the nation.

After dinner the two men showed us a film which they made. The interesting thing in this case is the fact that the picture was not made for personal gain. The profits, if any, are going to purchase ambulances to help the sick and dying in a part of the world which is at present torn by war.

In the picture, however, I think they presuppose too much knowledge of old world conditions. I hope before it is shown generally there will be some way of bringing out the background, which is very alien to our own country. Here land is not as yet concentrated in the hands of any groups to such an extent that the people generally cannot acquire any for themselves. This has been the case in Europe, even in the far east, and has often caused great hardship.

To me, another interesting thing about the picture was the faces of the men and women. No matter what their occupations were, farmers, soldiers, orators or village housewives, all were interesting types whom you felt you would like to study. The pity of it all kept running through my mind. When will we learn to talk things out and not go at each other's throats like wild beasts?

I wonder how many people seeing "Wee Willie Winkie" will get the main lesson from it. It took a little child's faith and logic to bring a dangerous tribal chief in India to an understanding with his ancient enemy, "the soldier of the queen."

My guests and I took the midnight train to New York and it seemed warm as we drove through the streets of Washington. At first the train seemed cooler, but once in bed, until we started, I felt it was hard to get a real breath.

At my New York apartment this morning, Mrs. Scheider and I breakfasted on our porch and soon made up our minds New York city had no attractions for us in summer. By 9:45 we were on the train for our trip up the Hudson river. It was comfortable, though as we looked out on the smooth surface of the water and the hazy atmosphere, we knew it was a hot day.

When I said goodbye to my husband last night, I suggested to him that he spend what time he could on the Potomac river, at least at night. His office is air-cooled, but he observes that the difference between the outer air and the air in his office is too great.

Attractive Dance Steps By Practice From Diagrams

Smoothest dancers on the floor. No awkward missteps, embarrassing blunders. They weave through the graceful tango, easily as walking.

From diagrams they found that tango steps are simple. Once they learned the tango swing—a succession of quick steps followed by a dreamy pause—all was plain sailing.

Tango Cross Step.

The girl, as you see, starts with her right foot. In crossing she leads with her left heel, not with her toe.

Diagrams that show the exact movement of the feet, and tell you the count, make it easy as pie to glide into the flowing, unbroken movement of waltz and fox-trot and swing with the pulsating rhythm of the rumba.

Our 40-page booklet, Social Dancing Self-Taught, diagrams 20 popular dance steps—waltz, fox-trot, tango and rumba for you. Tips on rhythm and balance, leading and following, to make you a charming partner.

Show Needlework With Pride

Household Arts by Alice Brooks

Easy Crochet Makes Companion Squares with Many Uses

PATTERN 5895

Proud You!—to have such stunning needlework to show! And what's more, the sterner budget won't frown if you crochet this fine lace cloth of ordinary string. The pattern tells just how to proceed, by memorizing first one, then the other of the 10-inch companion squares, and afterward, joining them "checkerboard" fashion. It's easy, too, to make scarfs and small refreshment pieces (if you use finer cotton) this simple way.

In pattern 5895 you will find instructions and charts for making the squares shown and for joining them to make various articles; material requirements; illustration of the squares and of all stitches used.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to Household Arts Dept. The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Be sure to write plainly your name and address and pattern number.

Pleasant Homes

MAKING REMARKS.

A lady's supposed to be gentle and sweet under any and all circumstances. At least according to a lot of books you read on how to twist people around your finger. But it's a rare lady who doesn't have to make remarks once in a while. Some men just need to have remarks made at them.

Anyway it helps a lot of situations. Marietta Marshall, for instance, made remarks about Henry's radio for the car. After all was that absolutely necessary when they had so many expenses, etc., etc.

Henry thought it over and decided that maybe Marietta had a point there... if he could have a radio in the car, why shouldn't she have one in her working center—the kitchen. She listens to a lot of programs while she's working there, but it's always meaty turning the living room radio on loud enough to be heard in the kitchen, not to mention chasing back and forth to dial different stations.

Radio in the Kitchen.
By the time Henry had doped it all out, Marietta had a radio in her kitchen, set right in the wall over the sink where she could adjust it without having to race through the house. She stacked a little chart of household programs near by and kept pencil and paper in reach in case something came over she'd want to write down.

While Henry was on the subject of kitchen flourishes for Marietta's comfort and pleasure, he devised a system of mirrors which enabled Marietta to get a pretty good view of front door and front yard from her kitchen. The secret here was a mirror placed diagonally across a corner in the kitchen which reflected the front door and also reflected a reflection of another mirror that had a full sweep through the wide front windows. So Marietta could stand at the sink and see pretty much what was happening in the front porch her mirror, and in the back through the windows over the sink. Saved lots of trips in a household consisting of three children who were always into something somewhere.

Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Miss Boykin in care of The Atlanta Constitution for the writer's bulletin, "Sew Yourself a Family History." This includes patterns of motifs to work in needlepoint for a family sampler that illustrates personal incidents. (Copyright, 1937, for The Constitution.)

GOOD MORNING

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

I read in the papers the other day about this survey of the state of Georgia by some division of the WPA, covering a period of ten years, 1925-1935, to determine certain social trends that may account for an increase of crime among the young people, etc. Not having seen the official report, but relying upon the news story for m. impression, I am much concerned, though not surprised, to see the comment of the report on its findings to the effect that the idea of having a good time at the bottom of most of our crime—that young people are shying away from hard work, pouring into the cities in the hope of careers that will provide money with which to go places and see things.

The news story indicated that there was a time when the young people of Georgia thought of life in terms of making a living by the sweat of their brow, the majority of them planning definitely to spend their lives on the farm, but that now they are headed for the cities. Evidently the survey is sufficiently thorough to justify the conclusions stated in the news story.

It is always a sad day in the life of any boy or any girl when he or she decides on the plan of getting something for nothing. That philosophy of life runs head on into the Gibraltar of God's eternal will, and history does not record a single instance of successful violation of God's will. He who would be happy must go to work and stay at work. Work is the normal condition of man; indolence is abnormality. Laziness is the twin sister of crime. The greatest help to health, the inexorable law of success, the preventive against crime, the shield for temptation, the key to happiness, the secret of contentment, the path to health, the cure for mendacity, the demand of God and the boon of man is work! Old Thomas Carlyle was right when he said, "Happy is the man who has found his work."

Popular Atlanta Bachelor Yields To Lure of European Travel

By Sally Forth.

THE much traveled George Northen, Atlanta's popular bachelor, is about to be off on another jaunt. On Thursday George goes aboard the steamer Columbus to sail for England. He will only spend a few days on English soil, for on July 25, he yields again to the call of the high seas when he embarks upon the steamer St. Louis, at Queensferry, for a cruise to the North Cape. Stops will be made for brief stays in the Orkneys and the Faroe islands and the Westman isles. Upon arrival in Iceland, the ship's passengers will go ashore at Reykjavik for excursions to Thingvellir and Geyla. Stops will be made at Spitzbergen and Hammerfest before reaching the North Cape. On return from the cruise, the Atlantic goes ashore at Hamburg, thence to Berlin for a few days' stay. He will visit Vienna and Budapest before going to Paris to see the International Exposition.

George is scheduled to return to the States on the steamer Bremen on September 1. Sally just wonders how many skins to be made into fur coats George will bring home from the North Cape, to fulfill promises made to his host of feminine friends.

THE following conversation concerning the Duke of Windsor is reported to have taken place between Princess Elizabeth and her little sister, Princess Margaret Rose, during the coronation of their parents, King George and Queen Elizabeth, in Westminster Abbey:

Margaret Rose: "Where is Uncle David?"
Elizabeth: "He's not here."
Margaret Rose: "Why?"
Elizabeth: "Mr. Baldwin wouldn't let him come. He sent him away."
Margaret Rose: "Why?"
Elizabeth: "Well, I don't know exactly, but I think he wanted to marry Mrs. Baldwin."

EMMA MIDDLEBROOKS is so intrigued with the Dionne quintuplets that she goes to see them every summer. You see she has the good fortune to spend most of every summer in Canada, so she always goes to Calender to have a glimpse of the "quints" and see how they have grown and developed.

Crackers Split With Chicks; Return With Lookouts Today

BREAK O'DAY!
By Ralph McKee

The situation could be a bit more comfortable. I mean the baseball situation. The boys come home today from Memphis, where the heat and the Memphis pitchers combined to have them up there waving those bats very weakly. The Memphis heat is terrific. Next to the New Orleans heat it is the worst.

In a situation such as our brave lads discover themselves, it is very comforting to recall that in 1914 the Boston Braves were last on July 4 and first when the season ended.

The well-known baseball axiom that the club is first place on July 4 will go on to win the pennant is somewhat confused in our league. Two teams were tied on July 4. That must be left for the seers, and time, to explain. But the Braves of 1914, and other clubs since that time, have taken the old axiom over the jumps.

The first of the golden opportunities was muffed in Memphis. The fact is, however, that the Crackers have 67 more ball games to play. And this week finds those Little Rocks and those Chickasaws engaged in the gentle art of throat-cutting. By the time they have finished it is possible for the Crackers, playing Chattanooga and Knoxville, to make some slight gains and be in a position to make a stretch move.

It is rather certain that Memphis and Little Rock are taking a figurative look back over their shoulders at the Crackers, even though the Memphis nine did manage to administer a rather serious reverse to our pennant plans. The Crackers are dangerous. And while the Memphis lead is as respectable as one would want, there is still time and there are enough games in which the Crackers may carve out a pennant.

The Lookouts are here today. With "Raw Meat Bill" Rodgers acting as manager. The chefs in our town can help out by whittling Mr. Rodgers' steaks off the stringy side of the beef.

STEAK AND POWER.
Ball players perhaps are the most prolific eaters of steaks in the world. They have them for breakfast and always for dinner.

The idea is that each steak has so much power in it which may be translated into base hits. Pitchers like steaks because they believe they give power to their throwing arms.

In the early days of the league there was a great steak-eater managing a ball club. He brought his team into Nashville and put up at the old Dalton hotel which does not now exist. He sat down at the table and with a dreamy, contemplative look in his eyes, said to the waiter:

"Bring me a good thick steak, about two inches thick. Cook it rare and let me have some mushrooms with it."

The waiter went away and came back, sadly. "Mistuh," he said, "cook said he ain't got no such steak and wuz there one he would have done et it his self some time ago."

At any rate, one may be sure there are some thick steaks in the refrigerators at the homes of the ball players. And those who live at hotels will give the coffee shop a good play. If the steaks hold up in quality this week we may yet make a real inroad into the leads held by Memphis and Little Rock.

BUCKHEAD'S DELIGHT.
Hugh Casey won his tenth ball game of the season yesterday, beat the Nashville Vols 9 to 1. He has lost just five games.

This means that around the pool and soda tables in Buckhead, there will be a renewed interest in the Buckhead boy, who is making a great come-back with the Birmingham. Two years ago he received a full series share when the Cubs won the National league pennant. Last year he was sent home by the Los Angeles Angels because of a sore arm. This year the Cubs assigned him to the Birmingham.

He is doing the best pitching of his career this season and should be on and win 18 or 20 games, he will be sure to get another chance in the big-time baseball show. The late Wilbert Robinson always believed Casey would make a pitcher and Robby was a great judge of throwers. Casey never got going in his home town. Like a lot of ball players he never does well on his native heath.

MARCO POLO SHIRLEY.
Greatest traveler in Southern league history is Mule Shirley, recently rescued from the N. Y. P. league by Little Rock. Shirley has traveled more than the late Marco Polo. He has played in this league with Birmingham, Chattanooga, Atlanta, Knoxville, Nashville and now joins Little Rock. This leaves only two ports of call for the Mule. It is high time that Memphis and New Orleans made it unanimous.

The Mule might have been a great ball player. Time was when he was rated as one of the best first-base prospects in the minor leagues. But the Mule preferred the gay and gaudy life. And far be it from me to seek to add up the man's own chips. Maybe it's all right with him. He still is rather dangerous up there at the plate.

BOB FELLER RETURNS.
Baseball fans will find a very sincere gratification in the return of Bob Feller. The sensation of last season's closing weeks and of the spring training season of 1937, was out for weeks with a bad arm after his first start.

No one knew. Feller was young. He was either burned out or he had enough of the resiliency of youth to come back.

Yesterday he gave up just two hits to the Detroit Tigers in a full nine innings. He lost, six bases on balls hurting him. A two-hit game, however, would indicate the boy is really back. And all baseball will hope he is back to stay.

Dr. Childs Winner At West End Shoot
Dr. LeRoy Childs won first place in the class A group at the West End Gun Club Sunday afternoon, shooting 100x100. Second place went to Harry Harkins, who posted a 98x100.

J. C. Ellis won the winner of the class B group with a score of 89, and was followed by R. E. Vibberts, who shot an 88. Class C honors went to S. W. Roper, who posted an 81x100.

DON McNEILL WINS.
NEW YORK, July 11.—(AP)—Don McNeill, of Oklahoma City, defeated Gerin Cameron, of Tulsa University, 6-4, 6-3, 1-6, 7-5 in the All-Oklahoma final match of the second annual Queens singles championships at the Seminole Club, Forest Hills, today.

MILLER TO HURL OPENING BATTLE AGAINST NOOGA

Atlanta Has Opportunity To Do Some Advancing Today.

Moon Has Beaten All But Smokies

Lefty Leo Moon breezed through to his 10th victory against four defeats in the second game of the double-header yesterday. He'll probably make his next start against Knoxville here this week, giving him the opportunity to do something few pitchers ever achieve. And that is to beat all eight clubs. He beat Atlanta before he joined the club. And now when he trims Knoxville, he will have completed the list.

By JACK TROY.
There is still hope for the Crackers in the Southern league pennant race.

If the Crackers can take the majority of the games against Chattanooga and Knoxville this week and if they can do a little better than hold their own on the following road trip of two weeks which takes them to Chattanooga, Nashville, Knoxville and Birmingham on a 16-game excursion.

And provided that other Southern league clubs can get in some lasting licks against Memphis and Little Rock, particularly Memphis. The Crackers suffered a severe setback at Memphis. They had whittled the Chicks down to a whisper here and then allowed the leaders to widen the gap again.

If the Crackers can manage to stick within striking distance, they'll have other opportunities, of course, to settle their differences with both Memphis and Little Rock.

NASTY CHICKS.
The Travelers of Doc Prothro have been no puzzle to the Crackers this year, but the Chicks have had a way of bouncing back just when it seemed the Crackers had them on the run.

And so the burden of proof now is definitely on the Crackers, if their aspirations for a third straight pennant are to be realized.

Raw Meat Bill Rodgers leads his lowly Lookouts to town today for a four-game series. Neil Caldwell will follow with his Knoxville Smokies.

Right now the Crackers are nine and one-half games behind the Chicks. This is not an insurmountable lead, but assistance of the other clubs and some consistent winning is necessary if the Crackers are to make any definite headway.

MILLER ON MOUND.
It'll likely be Larry Miller, the rookie star, in the opener against Chattanooga at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Johnny Hill was king for a day insofar as leading the Crackers in hitting was concerned. Emil Mailho bounced right back into the lead yesterday. Hill went hitless in the first game to ruin his streak of hitting safely in the last 15 games.

The Crackers lost three out of four to Memphis, making the season's record six lost and only one won in the two series in the Chickasaw park.

They went below .500 for the road trip, winning three and losing four. Joe Grace, hitting a brace of homers, prevented the Crackers from getting no worse than an even break at Memphis.

YOUNG LONDOS FEATURES CARD
It's a bit late, that's true, but the fireworks are due to be set off tonight at the Key arena when Young Londos celebrates his return by taking on Jack Bloomfield in the feature match of a fine wrestling card.

Londos, a home town boy, has been on a tour that has taken him from Cuba through the New England states. He returned with an impressive record.

His opponent of tonight, Bloomfield, hasn't lost a match since he's been here and makes it just that much tougher for Londos to have a really successful homecoming.

The semi-final of the card features Tarzan Jordan, another home-town boy, against Frank Remille, the Birmingham butcher.

The opener will start the show off with a bang. Italian Joe Ferrona battles Baron von Hoffman, the gesticulating German of the van dyke beard and monocle.

The fireworks are scheduled to be set off at 8:30 across from the Key golf course. That is, the wrestling fireworks.

GOLFERS GATHER FOR STATE MEET

Rainwater Cards 74 in Practice Round for Augusta Tournament.

By KENNETH GREGORY.
AUGUSTA, Ga., July 11.—(AP)—Georgia's non-salaried golfers, seeking the 1937 silver cup of the Cracker State's amateur linksmen, gathered here today for warm-up rounds over the none-too-easy hill course of the Augusta Country Club.

There was a wide open battle heralded for the championship which James R. (Kid) Brown abdicated in turning professional and an early turnout threw little light on a possible successor to the Atlanta winner.

Best bets of those who had registered late today were Bill Zimmerman, the Augusta youngster who triumphed a year ago at Rome over Dr. Julius Hughes, of Atlanta, in the 36-hole finals, and Crawford Rainwater, of Atlanta, the low-scoring amateur in qualifying for the National Open.

ATLANTA THREATS.
Even in the face of Augusta's challenge, there was the threat of Rainwater, Billy McWilliams, of Savannah, two-time winner of the cup, and Atlanta's Black brothers—Charlie Jr. and Dave, both former Georgia champions, and Johnny Oliver, of Valdosta, also a winner years ago.

In the event one wanted to name a dark horse, there was George Converse, of Valdosta, who last week won his fifth Piney Woods championship at Thomasville.

There were two members of the Yates family on hand—Dan and Alan—to carry on the record of the veteran simon-pure Charlie.

Augusta had available a group of youngsters as potential threats, along with Arnold Blum, the 15-year-old star from Macon.

JULIUS MISSING.
However, there was one player who had not been heard from—Dr. Julius Hughes, runner-up a year ago to Zimmerman at Rome.

Hughes, perennially a threat in any Georgia championship, would again be the player to beat if he enters.

In practice rounds today Frank Mulhern signaled his importance in the race by firing a 71, one under par on the difficult hill course. His brother, Dick, had a 73, and Rainwater and Zimmerman fired 74s and 75s, respectively.

His opponent of tonight, Bloomfield, hasn't lost a match since he's been here and makes it just that much tougher for Londos to have a really successful homecoming.

The semi-final of the card features Tarzan Jordan, another home-town boy, against Frank Remille, the Birmingham butcher.

During the intermission after the Georgia state race, two bronze plate memorials to Weyman Boyles and J. Alex Sloan, two familiar figures in Lakewood races during the past 15 years, were unveiled and wreaths of flowers placed on both. Boyles' plaque is nearest the grandstand, with Sloan's on the other side of the track. They will serve henceforth as the starting line for all Lakewood races.

LEO MOON STOPS LEAGUE LEADERS IN NIGHTCAP, 6-2

Durham Loses Mound Duel to Martynik in First, 3-1.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 11.—The Chicks charged up to the brink of complete revenge on the Crackers today, then fired a blank and fell back.

After bumping off the 1936 champs in the first game, 3 to 1, to run their string of straight victories to seven, the Tribe tripped over Leo Moon and failed to make it four in a row over the Crackers in the second. The 6-to-2 triumph was the first for the Crackers at Russwood this season. It was Moon's tenth victory of the year, and his seventh straight. He allowed only five hits.

Mike Martynik was easy, giving up nine hits in the five innings he labored after yielding five of the six Cracker runs. Paul Spencer, who pitched the last two innings wild, pitched the sixth home.

Carving his twelfth victory with a deft left hand, Martynik gave the leading hitting team of the league just four blows, no two to an inning, struck out four men and mastered Chunky Bobby Durham who had dealt the Chicks a row of blanks in one of the series in Atlanta.

WON IT EARLY.
Memphis won the first game in the first inning, but they didn't know it. A walk to Joe Grace, a single by Coaker Triplett and a pitched ball that hit Keith Frazier in the back filled the sacks with one down. Andy Reese hit a pop fly back of first that Emil Mailho barely tipped with his fingers and it went for a hit, Grace scoring. Howell's long liner to left counted Triplett for the second, and what eventually proved the winning run.

The Crackers dented their one and only time on the second. Ed die Rose opened with a single and Mailho was hit. Johnny Hill walked to fill the bases. Buster Chatham fled to left and Rose scored but Mailho, trying to leg it to third, was out on a perfect throw.

Reese doubled in the eighth, went to third when Dixie Howell beat out a bunt and scored the last Chick run on Aubrey Epps' single.

LUBY SINGLES.
Hugh Luby, the first Cracker to bat in the second game, hit the first ball pitched for a single and maybe that was the payoff on the final result. The Crackers didn't count that round, but they made two the next on five hits. Mailho got a hit to short and was shot down by Jess Haley trying to steal. Hill bounced out but Chatham singled to left and Paul Edwards got a hit that neither Howell nor Blakeney could handle. Moon slashed a single to left to count Chatham and Mailho's single scored Richards.

Three more filtered across in the fifth. Luby walked and Mauldine struck out. The Crackers continued on Second Sports Page.

Bobby Feller Always Intimidates Opponents Hits--Loses, 3 to 2

YANKS WIN, TIE IN TWO BATTLES WITH SENATORS

Ben Chapman Attacks Umpire as Red Sox Defeat A's Twice.

DETROIT, July 11.—(AP)—Bob Feller allowed Detroit only two singles today, but he was lavish with bases on balls and Detroit beat Cleveland in the final game of their current series, 3 to 2.

In addition to the six passes Feller issued he let one Tiger run in on a wild pitch. Home runs by Solters and Trosky accounted for Cleveland's scores. Boots Pfeffer, a Tiger rookie, went the full nine innings, but was little, if any, more effective than Feller.

Umpire Brick Owen was hit on the chin by a foul tip in the third inning. The foul coupled with Detroit's 90-degree temperature forced him from the game.

A walk to White in the fourth inning, followed by Rogell's single, and Greenberg's single, produced Detroit's first run. In the sixth with one out, Feller walked White, Rogell and Gehring and then fanned Hank Greenberg. Pitching to Walker, however, he let fly a wild pitch and White scored again. Feller then fanned Walker.

In the ninth Gehring and Greenberg walked. Walker forced Greenberg at second, Gehring going to third. Rudy York then forced Walker at second. An almost certain double play was in sight, but Larry lost his footing as Walker slid into second and Gehring scored on the play.

The Yankees ended their most successful eastern stay of the season by whipping the Washington Senators, 4 to 3, in the opener of a double-header, and pulling up to a 5-all tie in the nightcap, which was halted in the ninth by darkness.

The win and tie gave them a string of eight games without a defeat, and a record of 19 victories, four setbacks and one deadlock since their return from their last western swing.

Lefty Gomez's six-hit pitching and homers by Bill Dickey and Lou Gehrig featured the opening tilt.

The Boston Red Sox defeated the Athletics twice by scores of 9-4 and 8-2. In the second game, Ben Chapman, Boston right fielder, angry over a decision, threw a ball at Umpire John Quinn, then struck him with his glove when he was ordered from the game.

The Chicago White Sox and St. Louis Browns broke even in a double-header, the Sox losing the first game, 4 to 1, and winning the second, 4 to 3. More than 20,000 saw the bargain bill.

Rose walked and Malho's single scored Luby. Hill's long double ended Rose and Malho.

Reese drew a walk to open the fifth and went to second on Howell's bounce to the pitcher. Haley popped out, but Blakeney smashed a double down the left field line scoring Reese and Wetherell got two bases on a fly along the right field line registering Blakeney. Bill McWilliams went in to hit for Mickey Mouse Bush and beat out a topper.

HIS GRACE FANS.

Joe Grace who beat the Crackers with two homers the previous day, worked the count to three and two and then fanned on a tremendous cut.

Blakeney's wild throw on Mauldin's hopper, a wild pitch and a long fly by Hooks brought home the final Cracker run in the seventh. Howell walked to open the Chicks' seventh, but Haley hit into a double play and after Blakeney walked, Epps, hitting for Spencer, popped out.

Johnny Hill's hitting streak that he reached 15 straight games ended in the opener. He came back with two blows in the nightcap.

Buster Chatham played in his 299th and 300th consecutive games.

Piedmont Mills Nine Wins Double-Header

Piedmont Hills won a double header Sunday afternoon, defeating the Avondale All-Stars, 4-3 and the Douglasville Nine, 12-1. J. Wallace, of the Piedmont Mills, was the hitting star of the day with seven for seven.

PHILADELPHIA, July 11.—(AP)—The New York Giants pulled up to within half a game of the National League today by trouncing the Dodgers in both ends of a double-header, 10 to 4 and 5 to 1. Wally Berger hit a homer in the nightcap.

Bill Swift held the Chicago Cubs to six hits while the Pittsburgh Pirates pounded out a 3 to 2 victory. Rain delayed completion of the contest for nearly an hour and a half.

The Cincinnati Reds bowled over five Cardinal pitchers for 29 hits today while two of their hurlers were doing a good shutout job and giving up 15 safeties, enabling the Reds to take both games of a double-header, 7 to 0 and 6 to 0.

Arab National Defense Party Condemns British Proposal for Division.

JERUSALEM, July 11.—(P)—Between six and 20 persons were killed and wounded in the upper Jezreel district Friday in a clash between troops and demonstrators demanding a separate mandate and disassociation from the Syrian republic, advices reaching here today said.

The reports, received from Damascus, said troops attempted to break up demonstrations held in mosques.

Mosques were reported emptied as crowds stormed government offices. The district governor was believed to have been killed. Troops were forced to fire into the crowd to break up the attack.

In Jerusalem, the Arab national defense party issued a manifesto tonight severely condemning recommendations of the British royal commission for splitting Palestine into separate Arab and Jewish states and the creation of a new British mandate controlling the holy cities of Jerusalem, Bethlehem and Nazareth.

Ragheb Yab Nashashibi, former mayor of Jerusalem, presided at an executive party meeting. The manifesto said his party was interested in a "noble Arab nation" and could not see the partition scheme as a solution. The proposal has been supported by Emir Ab-

U. S. Bureau to Look Hurricanes in 'Eye'

WASHINGTON, July 11.—(P)—The weather bureau is going to look the next hurricane in the "eye."

It announced today it has 150 delicate instruments, attached to small balloons, ready to send from four stations to record the humidity, temperature and precipitation attending any hurricane that blows inland this season. The instruments are located at Macon, Georgia; Maxwell Field, near Montgomery, Alabama; Vicksburg, Mississippi; and Raleigh, North Carolina.

The instruments will be sent up into the "eye" of the hurricane—the calm dead-center of the swirling storm area.

dullah, of Transjordan; opposed by the nationalist party.

The Arab higher committee received a telegram from the leader of the Shia sect in Iraq (a sect composing the majority of the population in Iraq) expressing strong opposition to the partition. This leader declared he will urge Great Britain to abandon the scheme.

PREMIER OFFERS TO FIGHT ARABS WHO GIVE IN

BAGDAD, July 11.—(P)—Premier Hikmet Sulman, of Iraq, today offered to fight to the death any Arab who accepts the partition of Palestine proposed by Great Britain.

"To cut part of the Arab countries is to cut away part of the Arabs' heart," he announced in a press statement. "We will fight any man who accepts the partition of Palestine proposed by Great Britain. I, myself, will fight him to the death."

RELIGIOUS MEETING TO DISCUSS FACISM

United States Sends Delegates to Christian Assembly of 40 Nations.

OXFORD, England, July 11.—(P)—The age-old conflict of church and state, as revived by the rise of European dictatorships, today promised to be the outstanding topic of discussion in the meeting of the Universal Christian Council for Life and Works which opens tomorrow at Oxford University.

Leading delegates said an attempt would be made to form a world front of Christian churches to oppose "the increasing menace of Fascist states and dictators to religious liberty."

Almost 850 delegates, including 275 from churches of the United States, will attend the 15-day meeting which brings together 85 religious communions of eastern and western churches in 40 nations.

Germany will not be represented at the meeting.

In view of labor unrest and strikes in the United States an effort also may be made to formulate a stand on "the church's attitude toward labor unions." The Christian attitude toward war was expected to receive attention also.

THREE FAITHS JOIN TO ADVOCATE PEACE

Catholic, Protestant and Jewish Speakers Emphasize Divine Law.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., July 11.—(UP)—Representatives of three great religious faiths—Catholic, Protestant and Jewish—joined tonight in asserting that world peace will come only when nations no longer consider themselves immune to divine law as it applies to individuals.

Rabbi Eugene Kohn, president of the Rabbinical Assembly of America, New York, said at a vespers service of the institute of public affairs that religion must "fight the heresy of national sovereignty."

Admitting that abolition of war may take generations, or centuries, or even millennia, Rabbi Kohn added:

"Nevertheless it must be put on the agenda of our day, for to regard it as impossible would be to admit defeat in all those human aspirations that spell for us the divine meaning of life."

The Rev. Edward L. Stephens, D. D., of the Roman Catholic "case" of Richmond, said that nations must become possessed of a "moral sense."

The Rev. M. Ashby Jones, Baptist minister of Atlanta, recalled the late Aristide Briand, of France, once said that before the world could have military disarmament it must accept "moral disarmament."

"A moral disarmament" means that we must enter the realm of the spirit, and dare seek to change racial, national, and religious attitudes," he said.
